Thousand Economists Protest New Tariff Measure

SAVANTS DECLARE BILL WOULD BRING NO REAL BENEFITS

Representatives of 179 Colleges See Pending Law as Menace to Trade and Good Feeling.

GREATER COST OF LIVING SEEN

Republican Leaders Still See Quick Passage for Bill Despite Opposition, New Parley Planned.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—More than 1,000 economists representing 179 colleges throughout the country joined in a letter to President Hoover and the congress today protesting against enactment of the tariff bill and asking that it be vetoed if passed.

The Hawley-Smoot measure, the conference report on which will be taken up in the senate after the Parker nomination is disposed of this week, also was the target for a statement by Representative Collier, democrat, Mississippi, who said the bill left the house yesterday carrying the "highest rates of any bill ever enacted by the American congress."

Dr. Clair Wilcox, associate professor of economics at Swarthmore college, presented the statement on behalf of the economists, who included Irving Fisher, Yale; Frank W. Taussig, Harvard; Frank A. Fetter, Princeton; Wesley C. Mitchell, Columbia; Henry R. Seager, Columbia; J. Laurence Laughlin, Chicago; William I. King, New York University; M. B. Hammond, Ohio State; E. M. Patterson, University of Pennsylvania; Emory R. Johnson, dean of Wharton school, Pennsylvania, and H. S. Person, managing director, Taylor Society.

Mistake.

The statement expressed the conviction on the part of the signers that "increased restrictive duties would be a mistake," and would "increase the cost of living and injure the great majority of our citizens."

Few people could hope to gain from such a change, the statement said, adding that the vast majority of the farmers would lose, American export trade in general would suffer, and unemployment would not be lessened.

"Finally," it concluded, "we would urge our government to consider the bitterness which a policy of higher tariffs would inject into our international relations."

It was contended the pending bill violated the spirit of the world economic conference agreement of 1927 in which the United States was represented, and which resolved to discourage higher tariffs and to "move in the opposite direction."

Collier, a member of the ways and means committee, asserted all the 15 rate schedules have been materially increased over existing law.

"The congress was called primarily for the benefit of agriculture," he said, "and while in most instances the rates on agricultural products were increased, and the rates have been raised, yet the real substantial raises have all been on manufactures of steel, cotton, wool, flax, hemp, jute and rayon."

Quick Action Seen.

Republican leaders hope to send the Hawley-Smoot measure to the White House in a week or 10 days. The senate must yet act on the conference report and instruct its conferees on the provisions still in disagreement through adverse house action.

Of the eight major amendments unsettled by the conferees and voted upon last week by the house, six are still subject to change by senate action, including the silver and lumber rates, the lease cement amendment, and the export debenture, flexible clause, and tariff commission reorganization provisions. The house rejected the senate amendments touching all of these, but finally settled the sugar and the cotton duties by accepting 2 cents on the former and the free list for the latter.

In turning down the export debenture and the flexible clause withdrawing presidential authority to make emergency rate changes the house supported President Hoover in both instances. Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the house majority leader, expressed the opinion that the executive would not sign a bill with the debenture plan in it.

Republican chiefs in both houses are confident the debenture is desirable, but the flexible clause is a compromise on the flexible provision remaining in the president's right to raise or lower duties within a limit of 50 per cent will be worked out in conference.

Eastern Seaboard Swept by Blaze

Hundreds of Homes and Thousands of Acres of Forest Ablaze; Long Island Surrounded.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Flames, swept onward by a stiff spring breeze, wrought havoc today in widely separated sections of the east.

A small fire that started in a wooden bridge at Nashua, N. H., gateway city to the Granite State, destroyed most of the southeastern section of the city, including at least 125 houses, several business establishments, a church and school.

On Long Island and Staten Island, in New Jersey, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, destructive brush and forest fires baffled the fighting skill of thousands of regular firemen and volunteers.

Long Island Blazes.

On Staten Island, in New York harbor, brush fires cut a wide swath. They burned 200 cottages at Oakwood Heights, making hundreds of persons homeless, and threatened Rossville, Prinsep Bay and Pleasant Plains. Fire apparatus, ferried over from Manhattan and Brooklyn for the first time in 20 years, reached its destination just in time to save 5,000 bungalows at South Beach from the flames.

The Long Island fires, covering an area estimated at 100 square miles, were the worst in a quarter century. The biggest one, believed to have started from a burning lumber yard at Amityville, swept a section 10 miles long and three miles wide and sent a huge column of smoke a mile into the air, whence it drifted over the Atlantic.

Strung out from Amityville 75 miles along the south shore of the island to Southampton were innumerable smaller fires, which threatened villages and were reported to have burned several barns and houses. Residents of Bayshore and Babylon escaped by the dense smoke, failed to catch a glimpse of the sun all day. Sixty-eight fire companies fought in vain to stem the fiery tide and aviation from the Long Island flying fire flew over the area surveying the damage.

Jersey Forests Burn.

Southern New Jersey was completely enveloped in smoke from at least a half dozen fires. In Atlantic county the worst fire for many years laid waste 1,500 acres of scrub oak and pine underbrush, destroyed several small houses and sent hundreds of families fleeing in fear from their homes.

Near Pomona, Absecon and Oceanville, N. J., hundreds of men fought frantically to keep the flames away from the settlements, but several houses were burned. Another fire destroyed 15 structures in Forked River, Ocean county, and sent hundreds fleeing from their homes, leaving their valuables behind. Fire warden and state troopers flew over the burning areas directing the work of battling the flames.

In some places in New Jersey the roads were clogged with refugees and sightseers so badly that traffic was almost at a standstill.

A fire between Voorhees and Russell, Mass., burned over about 1,000 acres and threatened the Springfield waterworks. Twenty fires in the

ATLANTA PILOT KILLED IN CRASH

Johnny LaFitte, Teaching Miami Student, Burns as Plane Falls.

MIAMI, Fla., May 4.—(AP)—Johnny LaFitte, about 19 and Delbert Ashland, about 20, were burned to death when the airplane in which they were flying fell into a field at Hialeah today.

LaFitte was teaching Ashland, a student, to fly an airplane belonging to Sam Belcher, of Miami.

Witnesses said that as the couple flew over the field and turned, the plane went into a verticle bank and apparently out of control at an altitude of about 300 feet. It fell to the ground and burst into flames.

Bodies of both men were so badly burned that preliminary examination failed to reveal extent of possible injuries from the crash.

LaFitte and Ashland lived in Miami, although the former came here from Georgia not long ago.

Mrs. Nathan Straus Dies at Mamaroneck

MAMARONECK, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Lina Gutierrez Straus, wife of Nathan Straus, retired merchant, who is widely known as a philanthropist, died at her home today. She was 77 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Straus devoted 40 years to philanthropic work, and since 1914, when Mr. Straus retired from the firms of R. H. Macy and Abraham & Straus, they have given all of their income and a large part of their principal to such activities.

They worked together in the Zionist movement and many years ago became interested in the pasteurization of milk, establishing a laboratory for the distribution of such milk to the poor in 1902. Mrs. Straus prepared much material for publication on fire relation of the pasteurization to health.

Born in Mannheim, Germany, Mrs. Straus came to New York in 1875 and was married to Mr. Straus in the same year. Five years ago they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, asking their guests to make charitable bequests instead of giving presents. One of Mrs. Straus' favorite charities was the Jewish hospital here.

Surviving are her husband and three children, Nathan, Jr., Hugh Grand Straus and Mrs. Sissie Straus Lehman.

Nathan Straus, retired, was a brother of Isadore Straus, who lived in Talbotton, Ga., before going to New York. The latter is the father of Oscar, Nathan and Isadore Straus, the present three officials of R. H. Macy & Company.

HOOPER EXERTS STRONG PRESSURE FOR JUDGE PARKER

Opponents Alarmed By Active Part President Is Taking To Secure Confirmation.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Facing an uphill contest for votes, friends of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, prepared today to take the offensive tomorrow in the senate debate in a final effort to win his confirmation as a member of the supreme court.

With half a dozen senators ready to carry on the debate tomorrow for the nominee, leaders abandoned hope of a vote on Parker before Tuesday. Meanwhile there was no apparent change over the week-end in the lineup, the foe still claiming victory and the proponents still working for a majority.

Senators Waterman, republican, Colorado, and Stephens, democrat, Mississippi, two members of the judiciary committee which voted 10 to 6 against Parker, will take up the Parker case tomorrow and several others, including Senators Allen, republican, Kansas, and Jones, republican, Washington, are in line to follow up the attack.

Little hope was held out today by leaders of either side of support for a motion to recommit the nomination to committee. There has been some discussion of this but the apparent determination of President Hoover not to withdraw the nomination under any circumstances has about killed the movement.

The president is represented as taking a most active part in the drive for votes and the Parker foes expressed alarm today that his efforts might upset their calculations. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, leader of the opposition, is prepared to re-enter the debate if he feels the situation demands.

The Hoover activities are credited with strengthening the republican forces which split wide when the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People protested against the attitude of Judge Parker toward the negroes.

However, Senator Borah has made his attack upon the nominee solely on the ground of the attitude he expressed in upholding an injunction restraining the United Mine Workers from soliciting membership among employees of the Red Jacket Coal Company in West Virginia who had signed "yellow dog" contracts not to join the unions.

The unknown position of many of the southern democrats toward Parker has caused considerable doubt in the calculations over the final result. A letter sent to the senate by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, showing that Joseph M. Dixon, assistant secretary of the interior, urged the White House to appoint Parker as a "master political stroke" caused considerable confusion. Parker is a republican.

Another Point.

Another factor in the debate has been the protest over Parker's activities as a government prosecutor of a war frauds case which was dismissed by the trial judge, Grover, of the Virginia federal court. Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, said evidence showing the innocence of the defendant was produced by defense counsel from the government's files.

Senator Overman, democrat, North Carolina, replied with a letter from Judge Grover lauding Judge Parker's handling of that case. He also quoted from Judge Grover's instructions to the jury in that case in which Parker was credited with fairness and ability.

It has been a strenuous debate but there has been little acrimony. Senators Fess, Ohio, and Hastings, Delaware, republicans, charged that the attack against Parker was one developed by socialist influences and was one aimed at the independence of the supreme court. Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, denied this and pleaded that the court be "humanized."

3 Augusta Stores Gutted By Blaze

Augusta, Ga., May 4.—(AP)—

Firemen shortly before midnight had brought under control flames which for a time threatened to destroy a block of buildings on Broad street in the heart of Augusta's business district.

Starting from undetermined causes about 10 o'clock tonight in the McClellan Five-and-Ten Cent Store, the fire quickly gutted that building, which also housed the Lerner Shop, a dry goods establishment. A general alarm was sounded as the flames spread to adjacent structures occupied by Ruben's Department Store, Bern's Clothing Store, and the shoe store of Mulhern and Marks.

The damage was estimated tentatively at $400,000. The buildings are all two and three stories in height.

Auto Falls 70 Feet From Bridge, Killing 5

FORT BRAGG, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and an entire family wiped out in an automobile accident on the highway five miles south of here today.

A closed car bearing a picnic party plunged 70 feet from a bridge, killing all the occupants.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Grivette and their six-year-old son, all of Fort Bragg; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones, also of Fort Bragg.

PRICE HITS BACK AT JURY; POINTS TO TRIAL RESULT

Ragsdale and Johnston Silent as Price Claims Vindication and Scores "Persecution."

While Mayor J. N. Ragsdale and Superintendent Steve R. Johnston were declining to reply to severe criticism of their official conduct as administrative head of the city of Atlanta and as chief executive officer of Grady hospital, respectively, W. P. Price, purchasing agent, who received even sharper criticism than others named in the March-April presentation of the Fulton county grand jury, declared that he had "answered every charge ever brought against me in the court and been vindicated."

Mayor Ragsdale, asked if he had anything to say about the grand jury's scathing condemnation of official laxity, replied:

"Not a word."

Superintendent Johnston was only slightly more laquacious. Asked if he wished to comment on the grand jury's report, he said:

"No, I haven't had time to digest it yet."

Mayor Ragsdale was sharply scored in the grand jury's document for his inability to co-ordinate administrative control and correct wrong conditions existing at the city hall as disclosed in the graft inquiries. At the same time the grand jury made a firm plea for the selection in the coming primary "of a strong administrative head."

Cutting Expenses Urged.

"Some effort should be directed," the grand jurors reported to Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, "to cutting expenses instead of devising ways to spend more money."

Turning its attention to Grady hospital, the report declared that there should be immediate provision of additional bed space and correction of the fire hazard at the hospital. Transfer of the control and supervision of the hospital also was strongly recommended.

The grand jury declared that Price is unfit to serve the city as purchasing agent, adding: "To say the least . . . Price has been guilty of culpable stupidity."

It emphasized the fact that the mayor, when asked if steps to remove Price had been taken, contented himself with saying: "A letter was received from someone about it and I sent it to council."

Statement by Price.

In a statement in which he said that he had been unfairly handled by thousands of dollars and that a jury had vindicated him of all charges of official misconduct, Price said:

"Turning its attention to my many friends should I not answer the criticisms made by the last grand jury with reference to my official acts as purchasing agent of the city of Atlanta."

"Twelve honest, conscientious jurors, after a thorough and complete investigation in Fulton county superior court, recently acquitted and vindicated me. The state was ably represented by the state's solicitor-general, John A. Boykin, Edward Stephens, Walter McCraw and special counsel, William Scheley Howard, who was being paid $500 per week since early in the investigation by the county. If this grand jury had had all the facts of these charges against me before them, I do not believe they would have made any criticism."

"My records are an open book. The public has full access and any fair-minded man can readily see no juggling of orders has ever taken place and that the public is treated absolutely fair in the city's distribution of orders at the most advantageous prices."

"I have answered every charge brought against me in the court and been vindicated. Why should I further be persecuted?"

Bodies of Two Guards Found in Lake Erie

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 4.—(AP)—

The bodies of two of three coast guardsmen believed to have been lost in a storm which swept the western section of Lake Erie Thursday and Friday nights were recovered near the Maumee bay harbor light today.

The bodies were thought to be those of Captain Gardner D. Young, indicted here in September, 1929, on a charge of shooting with intent to kill Ruth-erford Hayes, Port Clinton, Ohio, and Master Mechanic's Mate Pratt.

Chief Motor Mechanist Hay, known to have been with Young and Pratt, has not been found.

POLICE PREVENT GANG EXECUTION

Officers Arrive Just as Victim Is About To Be Slain Near Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—A curtain automobile stopped on a dark road just outside suburban La Grange park early today. A figure tumbled out into the ditch and three men stepped out briskly. In the darkness a voice was heard to say:

"You have half a minute to live!"

A trembling voice pleaded: "Give me a break—please—"

And suddenly three shadows came out of the bushes; three flashlights shone on the kidnappers, and a voice of authority snapped: "Get your hands up!"

So Earl Holmes came back alive this morning from what he had feared was to be a ride of death. Unknown to him or to his abductors, Police Sergeant E. J. Mitchell and Patrolmen William Powell and Otto Piltz had been attracted by the kidnap car as it rolled through in the early hours and had followed it. It was they who had stepped out of the darkness to arrest Frank Fabarulo, 35; John Hennessy, 34, a former Chicago policeman, and Samuel Daldino, 23.

At the station Holmes told his story. He had fallen in love with Anna Larson, 23, who was being pursued by Fabarulo. He had urged her to leave "the gang." Then the girl was arrested in January with Mrs. Margaret Russell Alberts, the latter as the slayer of Frank Bataglia, West Side hoodlum, and the former as an accessory. While the girl was in jail he wrote her further, he said, pleading with her to marry him and move away from hoodlums' haunts, and when she was released on bond, she agreed. They had gone to her home last night, he related, to get her belongings, only to find the three men there.

Exciting Chase Ends in Capture Of Stolen Auto

An exciting chase through several streets ended early today with the capture of a stolen automobile and the arrest of two men.

Cruising down Bell street, Patrolmen Sam Smith and J. A. McKibben spotted just ahead of them a car they recognized by the license number as one listed stolen. At the intersection of Gilmer they drove alongside the car and when they did the occupants stepped out of the car. The patrolmen then chased the car to Gilmer and Hastings street where Officer Smith, driving the police car, tried to block the stolen machine, the driver of which almost wrecked them. The officers rushed their machine again and pursued the other car, firing at the rear tire and puncturing it. At the corner of Hill and Sydney streets, the stolen car crashed against the curb.

J. W. Cofer, 319 Ormond street, and Paul Britt, 965 East Fair street, were arrested and jailed on a technical charge. Each one told officers that the other took the car and invited him for a ride.

Atlantan Is Drowned When Boat Capsizes

Flung from a small boat into the waters of the Chattahoochee river, a few miles above the Medlock bridge at Roswell early Sunday morning when a hook from a trolley caught in the flesh of his hip, Wright E. Freeland, 30, of 12 Grandview avenue, was drowned. His body was not recovered until about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Freeland, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Freeland, was considered a good swimmer, but it is thought probable that he became entangled in the fishing line and could not free himself. According to his relatives, he went to the fishing camp of six Buckhead friends Saturday night to stay with them for a day or two.

The body was removed to the funeral home of Ed Bond & Condon and an inquest will be held there at 9 o'clock this morning. In addition to his parents he is survived by four brothers, J. H. C. L. N. H. and Jack Freeland; four sisters, Mrs. R. J. Childress, Mrs. H. D. Clark, Mrs. W. G. Evans and Mrs. M. H. Milling.

ARREST, EXPECTED FOR MANY WEEKS, MAY CAUSE RIOTS

Leader Is Taken at Jalalpur, Village to Which He Marched To Open Salt Campaign.

CHARGE IS OPEN DEFIANCE OF RULE

London Is Not Surprised; Government Is of Opinion That Peace Must Be Restored at Any Cost.

JALALPUR, India, May 5.—(Monday)—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Indian civil disobedience movement against British rule in India, was suddenly arrested in this village this morning. He was arrested under the act of 1927, known as resisting British rule.

Under the terms of a regulation more than a century old, the idol of the Hindu masses will remain in prison at the pleasure of the government of India.

His arrest, following a week of comparative tranquillity since the riots at Calcutta, Karachi and Peshawar, which were disavowed by Gandhi, has been heralded by many rumors but finally came with a shock of surprise.

Rushed Out of District.

Upon his followers, its effects were not immediately visible, the government, which in the face of his overt provocation inviting arrest since he first violated the salt monopoly at the village of Dandi April 6, played a cautious waiting game. Many of his assistants were taken into custody and imprisoned after summary trials, while with regard to Gandhi the "ray" hid its time.

Gandhi was taken to the central jail at Yeroda, a town near Poona, Poona is a British military stronghold and the headquarters of an army command.

Elaborate precautions were taken by the authorities to prevent violence or attempts at rescue.

At Yeroda, Gandhi will be detained with trial.

After being arrested Gandhi was smuggled aboard a Gujerat mail train and taken to the town of Borivil, a station 30 miles from Bombay. There he was transferred to an automobile, which immediately dashed off towards Poona.

Mohandas Karachand Gandhi, mahatma or "holly one" of the Hindu masses, whose arrest is reported from Bombay, has had a previous acquaintance with British prisons, though never for any other than a political offense.

With the aid of C. R. Das, he launched in 1930 a wide-spread agitation against British government in India, which caused disturbances all through the year. Finally, the government, showing its patience exhausted, took steps to end all political meetings.

Gandhi quickly seized the opportunity to strengthen his own cause by beginning a movement of non-violent resistance. His followers refused to cooperate in any way with the government.

The mahatma was arrested and tried under the civil disobedience acts. Sentenced to five years' imprisonment he was, however, released within a few months.

After his release he shifted his plans, abandoning the non-co-operative movement and centering upon efforts to increase his personal political foothold to fight for home rule. Upon the death of Das, his leader, in 1925, he succeeded to the guiding power in the nationalist party.

It was about this time that he founded his "Ashram," or college of devotees, at Ahmadabad. With his four sons and his wife he began to

Young Goldsborough Breaks Air Record

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—(AP)—Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old Jackson Heights, N. Y. flier, landed at an outlying airport at 1 p. m. today, to clip 13 hours and 57 minutes from the trans-continental record for junior fliers.

Goldsborough flew in from Colton, Cal., under extremely unfavorable weather conditions. He said he was forced to climb 10,000 feet in some instances to escape rain and storm clouds. He was conveyed from Colton by a small airplane.

The last leg of his flight, approximately 40 miles, was covered in just as many minutes, the bad weather slowing him down somewhat.

Goldsborough said he intended to fly back east again sometime next week in an effort to set a record for the west-east trip.

AT CANDLER FIELD

Beiler Blevins this morning is the proud possessor of three new records, whatever they might be worth. He has the distinction of having completed, Sunday afternoon, the longest and the highest glider flight ever made in this vicinity, and the first flight in which an automobile was used as the launching power. Hitching one end of a 500-foot cable to the front of his glider and the other end to a light truck, he ascended to a height of about 350 feet. Cutting loose from the truck at about that altitude he made better than a complete circle of the field and landed in front of his hangar.

He repeated the stunt a few minutes later, to the plaudits of a big crowd which had assembled for the afternoon. "Co-pilot" J. H. Gray, field manager, was in charge of the city truck which did the launching, while "Observer" Lee Blevins, division manager for S. A. T. watching the proceedings from a vantage point on the vehicle, lent an air of dignity to the occasion. He instantly computed that the two flights, if placed end on end, would reach from the beacon at Candler field to the corner drug store on Main street, East Point. And he ought to know.

Aside from the glider flights, little of a spectacular nature took place, although a gratifying large percentage of the airport was taken advantage of the fine weather to purchase an inexpensive "thrill." All operators were glad to be able to report a busy day. Few visiting planes came in during the day, though Doug Davis, southern manager for the Curtis-Wright Sales Corporation, landed in his company's trim four-place Robin, after a sales demonstration trip to Jacksonville, Miami and other Florida points.

give full play to his ideas of communal life. He swore his followers to truth and poverty. What he had they could have, but no more. And for himself he wanted nothing. His nature of his campaigns, Gandhi always observed prayer, meditation and renunciation. His mental attitude was such as to place him beyond the effects of any form of punishment that might be placed upon him. Of his followers he asked a similar sacrifice of the same mode of life.

His entire campaign for years has been menaced not so much by the threat of drastic government suppression as by outcroppings of violence among his more erratic followers.

In the procession of events since March 12, last, when Gandhi and his band began their march from Ahmadabad to the sea, his constant command has been for peace. With the entire co-operation of his native cohorts throughout India, and an utter absence of violence, Gandhi's doctrine could have carried on his educational plans to a much greater length.

It was the outcroppings of violence which in spite of his appeals from his present civil disobedience campaign that ultimately forced the government to take him into custody. Two of his sons and many of his henchmen have preceded him into prison, but the effects of his arrest will be incalculably greater upon the hundreds of millions of people living in "mother India."

WAS DANGER TO PEACE, LONDON DECLARES.

LONDON, May 5.—(Monday.)—(P)—The arrest of Mahatma Gandhi in India, reported in dispatches to the British capital early this morning, caused little surprise in view of the persistence of recent reports that the government had decided the civil disobedience movement was causing mischief to the peace outweighing all other considerations.

The government's view is semi-officially that the time had come to terminate what was regarded as a long indulgence to the civil disobedience agitation and the campaign for independence led by the madman. His reputation for sanctity among the Indian masses appears to have been the chief reason for his escape from arrest during months of a month of open infraction of the salt laws in the Gujarat district.

The government, which has been closely following developments in India, feared that imprisonment of a man who urged non-violence upon his followers would react unfavorably upon the moderates of other faiths and creeds. The latter, while disapproving Gandhi's methods, greatly respect his personality. The British government is believed to have devoted much anxious thought to this problem, at last endorsing the view of Viceroy Lord Irwin and the Indian authorities that the time had come for putting an end to the "satyagraha" or civil disobedience, movement by striking at its very head and personification.

vicinity of W-rester, Mass., gave firefighters a terrific battle, and in southern Rhode Island flames were raging along a 10-mile front.

From several other parts of the east came reports of many fires. In Pennsylvania several thousand acres were burned over and two mountain towns were menaced for a time. Poor roads and the remoteness of some of the districts made detection and combating of the flames doubly hard.

In the Nittany valley burns, two miles from the campus of Penn State college, 2,000 acres were burned. Many students joined firemen in fighting the flames.

Forestry officials said the situation in the western part of the state was the worst in many seasons. They said they believed many of the fires had been set by men out of work in order that they might secure money by turning fire fighters.

The north and central sections of Connecticut did not escape the fiery epidemic. Several dwellings and farm buildings in the path of the onrushing flames were destroyed and the damage mounted to thousands of dollars.

As reports from central and southern New Jersey continued to pour in, it became apparent that fires were among the most serious in that state's history.

Despite the efforts of the weary firefighters the flames claimed many buildings, most of them small homes. At Forked River 19 homes and the Presbyterian church were destroyed, with a property loss estimated at $200,000. Among the homes lost was that of the township collector. All Aviation, in the words of a newspaper person who walked in on the New York air show, now holding forth in the Madison Square Garden, is becoming as feminine as a guest towel. What was noticed first was the bid for the women's attention, in coloring, which now runs up and down the chrome scale with less abandon; in comfort, as regards deep, roomy seats, and spacious interiors, and, finally, in the furnishings, which are said to be much more tasteful and more luxurious than ever before, and which include flower-holders and reading racks and other gadgets designed to attract the feminine eye.

Among the unusual features of the New York show, wherein are exhibited in all 47 planes with a total value of more than $2,000,000, is a new concept, which embodies several radical departures from accepted design. An auxiliary wing is mounted in the fore part of the fuselage for the purpose of minimizing tail-spin hazard. It operates automatically at high angles to combat involuntary stalling. The largest engine in the exhibit, especially imported for the occasion, is a 1,800-horsepower 18-cylinder Isotta Fraschini liquid-cooled motor. It is said to share attention in the power plant division with the new Packard Diesel.

Blazes Near Lakeside. A fire which started at Smithburg, burned to Lakeside, 12 miles away, after destroying part of Bassville, a town of about 500.

At Tuckerton, in southern Ocean county, 10,000 acres were burned. The home of the superintendent of schools at Florence was destroyed. A number of buildings at Laureton were burned, an inn at Allaire was up in flames, and the home of Arthur Brisbane, editor, nearby, was damaged slightly.

The fire lookout station atop the naval air station hangar at Lakeside, which was enveloped in smoke that it was useless.

Reports from several other towns told of buildings destroyed and much land denuded by fire. When the flames, driven by a 45-mile wind, swept across the New York-Atlantic City boulevard at Laureton, scores of deer were forced out and tonight were roaming the highway.

Fire swept through hundreds of acres of valuable timber lands in Delaware tonight. The worst blaze was near Millsboro. Others were reported near Dover and at Hazletville. Many farm houses were threatened.

Damage to growing timber was estimated by fire wardens at $500,000.

NORFOLK NAVY YARD IS BURNING.

NORFOLK, Va., May 5.—(P)—Fire said to have started from an explosion in the forward part of a tug moored at the dock last night shortly after 10 o'clock set fire to pier No. 7 at the Hampton Roads naval operating base. Early this morning the fire was still raging.

Recently $250,000 was spent on the pier to care for the airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga. At 11:30 the entire pier appeared doomed. The tug Kewawayden, which was moored at the pier, caught fire but was cut loose and escaped destruction.

The Norfolk department sent two companies in response to the first call for aid. At 11 o'clock a call for more equipment was received and a third company and a fire boat were sent to the scene. The cause of the explosion on the tug had not been learned nor was it known whether any casualties had resulted.

John Read, Popular Tech Student, Dies

John D. Read, popular Tech student and member of a prominent Charleston, S. C., family, died at a private hospital here Sunday night after an illness of only a few days. The body will be taken to Charleston, S. C., today and funeral services will be held and the remains interred in that city Tuesday.

Young Read came to Georgia Tech two years ago after attending the University of Virginia and was one of the outstanding members of the class of '31, specializing in engineering. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Mayor Read, the latter having been Miss Margaret Canty Darby.

Two Negroes Jailed After Auto Collision

Two negroes were arrested early Sunday night by police and a third was being sought as the result of an automobile collision at the intersection of Simpson and Davis streets in which Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, of 906 Neil street, were injured.

The two negroes arrested by Call Officers L. E. Rutledge and John Hood gave their names and address as Elmore and Ernest Phillips, brothers, of 515 Collier street. The former made a bond of $200 and the latter a bond of $500. Both were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. Elmore, according to the officers, attempted to drive his car away before they arrived, and Ernest is said to have attempted to start a small riot between the mixed crowd of whites and colored who were drawn there by the accident.

The third negro being sought is a brother of the pair, and he is alleged to have been driving the car when it crashed into the machine being driven by Mr. Smith, who, with his wife, was given treatment at Grady hospital.

Prohibition Law Agitation Scored By Dr. Broughton

While conceding the honesty of purpose behind a newspaper "straw vote" on prohibition, Dr. Len G. Broughton, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle, declared in his sermon there Sunday night that the purpose of present agitation of the prohibition question is to "make it appear that the country has repented of its dry stand in the 1928 election so that prohibition can be rammed down the democratic party's throat as an issue in 1932."

Dr. Broughton spoke on "This Prohibition Insanity," and justified his treatment of the dry issue from the pulpit with a text from Ezekiel 3:17: "I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; give them warning from me." The pastor predicted that dry democrats and republicans will try to form a third national political party if prohibition is made an issue in the 1932 campaign. The congregation cheered and applauded frequent thrusts at Alfred E. Smith and at John J. Raskob. Raskob, the pastor declared, "was not, never had been and could not be a democrat." He asserted that the "democratic party actually did not have a candidate in the 1928 presidential election." At Smith's repudiation of the prohibition program by dragging in the straw vote taken by a newspaper could not be perfectly sincere," Dr. Broughton continued. "I registered my vote through The Constitution ballot in favor of the present law. I think every prohibitionist should have done the same, but as a matter of fact they did not."

Toscanini Closes Concerts in Paris

PARIS, May 4.—(P)—A night of wild applause and repeated recalls was the farewell of music-loving Paris today to Arturo Toscanini and his New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra, which drew a capacity audience to the Paris opera. The orchestra is touring Europe.

Many of Europe's most distinguished cosmopolitan figures were present, and there was a dazzling display of feminine fashions in the boxes.

VENETIAN ART EXHIBIT OPENS AMID POMP

King Sends Duke of Bergamo as His Personal Representative.

VENICE, Italy, May 4.—(P)—Escorted by a colorful flotilla of gondolas flying the flags of Italy and the Venetian republic, the Duke of Bergamo, representing King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy, today inaugurated the 17th biennial contemporary art exposition here.

United States Ambassador John W. Garrett took part in the gondola pageant, and later formally opened the American pavilion, the first permanent home in Europe for the work of United States artists.

The American pavilion, designed by Delano & Aldrich, New York architects, is a chaste example of Georgian architecture. Its four central Doric columns are reminiscent of many a New England church or meeting house. Its low, restful line suggests Mount Vernon. It is of pink brick, with trimmings of flawless Istrian marble and light gray stone, with a low spherical dome over the entrance hall, where the statuary is grouped.

Walter L. Clark, president and founder of the Grand Central art gallery in New York, did the honors, welcoming the ambassador and the rest of the distinguished company. The visitors warmly praised the United States' contribution to the outstanding art exhibition of Italy's summer season.

Some 90 pictures were exhibited, showing the various American paintings, with conservative offerings predominant.

Lindy's Radio Speech Is All News to Him

NEW YORK, May 4.—(P)—Tentative arrangements to broadcast an address by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh fell through tonight because, the colonel explained, he had known nothing about such plans.

The speech was to have been made, under the tentative arrangement, from Madison Square Garden in connection with the New York air show. Several attempts to reach him during the day failed.

About three hours after the time set for the broadcast, Colonel Lindbergh telephoned the Associated Press that he had not been notified of the plans for the broadcast and that he regretted that "a lot of people had to be kept waiting for something that didn't happen."

Representatives of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, which is staging the show, reached the colonel by telephone tonight and announced that he said he expected to visit the show some time this week but would prefer not to speak.

NEGRO SPIRITUALS ECHO IN WESTMINSTER

Hampton Choir Pays Tribute to Livingstone; Thousands Listen.

LONDON, May 4.—(P)—The vaulted arches of Westminster abbey, which shelter the remains of England's kings and great men of history, echoed for the first time today with the soft strains of American negro spirituals. Forty boys and girls from Hampton Institute, of Hampton, Va., gathered before the memorial to the explorer David Livingstone, celebrated missionary to Africa, and paid tribute to him as a benefactor of their race. Great crowds of Londoners waited for an hour outside the abbey doors for a chance to hear the singing. The congregation of the even-song service remained to hear the little informal concert in the west transept. Led by Doctor Nathaniel Dett, the little band of negroes stood for a brief silent prayer before the memorial and then raised their voices in the hymn "Rest, Ye Weary Travelers." The hum of conversation in the curious crowd of Londoners, to whom the presence of a negro choir in the old abbey was a departure from tradition, stopped as soon as the singing began. The spirituals seemed to cast a spell upon the hundreds of hearers, and as the singers filed out of the west entrance, the crowd most reverently stood aside to make way for them. The party left tonight for Belgium, where they will begin a continental concert tour, returning for a final concert in London later.

Hoover Irked by Failure To Rush Enforcement Plans

President May Hale Congress Leaders on Carpet for Cold Reception Accorded Special Message.

BY PAUL R. MALLON, United News Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, May 4.—(UN)—Administration leaders in congress may be called on the White House carpet for their failure to plan passage of President Hoover's law enforcement reform program before they adjourn next month for the summer, it was intimated Saturday night by those in a position to know.

Mr. Hoover is irked that congress turned its back to his message last week, demanding enactment of these seven pending measures, his friends say. While he does not lean to the recommendation of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, that he call a special session this summer to force congressional action, he likewise does not intend to let the matter rest with the simple message, it is learned.

With White House pressure on them—with the New York Fraternity Club being raided, the night club guests being charged with possession and attempts under way to confiscate two farms in Illinois for alleged dry violations as this week's evidence of a determined effort to carry the enforcement battle to the limit—congress will have to give the president the laws he says are necessary to adequate enforcement or shoulder the responsibility for inaction, it is said.

Mr. Hoover's feeling has been accentuated, it is said, by publication of the views of William H. Staxton, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, that the president is not a dry at heart and believes prohibition has been a failure.

The senate lobby committee next week will level its fire against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Church, South, probably the most prominent dry.

A New York capitalist, E. C. Jameson, who is said to have donated $65,300 to Cannon's anti-Smith wet campaign in Virginia, was called by Chairman Caraway, of the investigating committee, to appear Tuesday.

He will be asked to answer the charge made by Representative Tinkham, wet republican, Massachusetts, that Cannon publicly accounted for only $17,400 of this money, leaving $48,200 unaccounted for in his statement filed with the clerk of the house.

From this phase the committee will jump Thursday into an inquiry into the Anti-Saloon league activities with Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent, as the leading witness.

This is merely cleaning up the charges which have been made before the committee and there is every prospect the hearings will be ad-journal as soon as possible, probably within two weeks.

All congressional leaders are manifesting skittishness over the prohibition issue. This is the chief reason why they do not intend to follow Mr. Hoover's advice for immediate passage of the seven reform bills submitted by his law enforcement commission. They are preparing to push through the bill now pending in the senate for transfer of enforcement activities from the treasury to the justice department and let the other six go. The others refer to revision of judicial court procedure with a view to speeding up prohibition prosecutions. So great interest has been manifested in these measures since Attorney-General Mitchell testified there is no more room in federal prisons, and that prosecutions had reached the prison saturation point.

Rev. John Yost Begins Anniversary Services

Beginning a series of services commemorating the 100th anniversary of Pentecost and the 400th anniversary of the Augsburg confession, the Rev. John L. Yost, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Sunday morning preached on "What We Believe About God."

"There is one divine essence," Mr. Yost said, "which is called and which is God; eternal, without body, without parts, of infinite power, wisdom and goodness, the maker and preserver of all things visible and invisible, and yet there are three persons, of the same essence and power, who also are co-eternal: The Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost. And we consider as heresies the teachings of those who consider God as an abstract unity, who deny the divinity of Christ and regard the Holy Spirit as only an impersonal force."

Touching upon the commemoration services, Mr. Yost said: "It is fitting that in the commemoration of this Pentecostal year special emphasis should be laid upon the confession of faith. As it is the mission of the Holy Spirit into the world to inspire the heart to believe and the tongue to confess, so it is the business of the church in response to that divine inspiration to acknowledge the lordship of Jesus Christ and through the confession of faith and the living of a consistent life give evidence of the continuity of the Christian church on earth."

REPUBLICAN SPEECH BRINGS MADRID RIOTS

Three Outbreaks, Many Arrests and Injuries Accompany Address.

MADRID, May 4.—(AP)—Three riots, a number of arrests and several injuries today marked a speech calling for a Spanish republic by Professor Miguel De Unamuno, of the University of Salamanca, one of Spain's republican leaders.

Repeating in a large theater his appeals for the supplanting of the monarchy by a republic, he again proved himself a storm center in Spanish politics.

Fighting broke out inside the theater before he even had a chance to talk. It was resumed in the street after the meeting, and continued in front of his hotel when he went home.

A group of a dozen monarchists opened the republican demonstration by rushing down the aisles of the theater shouting "Long live the king!" The professor's republican followers, shouting in reply "Long live the republic!" forcibly expelled the intruders after vigorous fist fights. Civil guards finally restored order in the meeting.

During the fighting Indalecio Prieto, socialist leader, who was in the audience, was slightly injured. He said an unknown person had attacked him and he fought back.

Senor De Unamuno in his address censured the dictatorship of Primo De Rivera, under which he was a voluntary exile in France, the present Berenguer government and the monarchy. As in recent speeches, he urged the establishment of a republic, but begged his followers to keep the peace.

His speech was no sooner ended than excited crowds outside the theater began to fight. The fighting became general in the streets. Mounted and foot police, charging several times, finally re-established order amid great excitement, and made some arrests.

A dozen or more persons were treated for bruises and slight cuts.

The fighting apparently began when groups of students, supporting De Unamuno, sought revenge upon persons in the crowd whom they suspected of having started the trouble in the theater.

Professor De Unamuno, returning by automobile to his hotel, was greeted by mingled cheers and jeers. In front of the hotel, a great crowd gathered. Some shouted "Down with Unamuno!" and others responded with frantic "vivas." Within a few minutes his opponents and supporters were fighting again.

Once more the mounted and the foot police charged the rioters, and again there were minor injuries, and several arrests.

Today's rioting was the second serious outbreak since the arrival of Senor De Unamuno in Madrid on Thursday. Fifty persons were then injured in clashes around the Norte railroad station.

Strong forces of police were on duty tonight in various parts of Madrid to prevent any further disturbance by republican and monarchists.

Professor De Unamuno's hotel was heavily guarded, as were the university section and cafe centers for the different groups.

Full Schedule Planned Today For Music Week

Following the opening of National Music Week observance in Atlanta by special programs and concerts Sunday, a full schedule for today has been planned, including band concerts and special broadcasts from both Atlanta radio stations.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the Georgia Power Company's band will perform an open air concert on the grounds of the state capitol. This will be followed at 7:15 p. m. by a special broadcast from station WGST, this program to include piano numbers by Miss Dorothy Waldman, said to be Atlanta's youngest concert pianist; violin selections by Miss Mary Douglas, vocal solos by Mrs. A. M. Swagerty and Mrs. Lillian A. Dove, while the closing numbers will be given by Rich's mandolin quartette, directed by Mrs. R. S. Clark. The broadcast will end at 8 p. m.

Just as this program ends at 8 o'clock a second will begin, to be given by the Atlanta chapter of the Pi Mu Musical society, meeting at the studio of Miss Dorothy Waldman, president, at 793 Park drive.

In co-operation with the general music celebration, colored musicians in the city will have a part in the observance. At 8:30 o'clock tonight there will be a concert at the Gammont Theological seminary and joint concerts will be given by Spelman and Morehouse colleges.

At 11 o'clock station WSB will go on the air for a 45-minute program which will include a tenor solo, "Again the Sun Over All;" soprano solo, "Alas, My Heart Is a Lute," and a duet, "I Have Known You Dear So Long."

The opening concert of Music Week ushering in the local observance was held at the Trinity Methodist church Sunday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. Nellie Nix Edwards. Dr. Ben J. Potter, organist, directed the musical numbers in addition to appearing on the program himself. Miss Regina Corrigan, president of the woman's division of the Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring Music Week in Atlanta, was introduced to the audience. She spoke briefly and made an appeal for more and better music, stating that music, like all cultural impulses, helped to "make a good city better."

Queen Marie Mourns For Victims of Fire

COTESCO, Rumania, May 4.—(AP) Queen Marie, accompanied by members of the court and government officials, today attended, in the presence of thousands of peasants, a touching memorial service for nearly 150 persons killed in the burning of a church here during an Easter vigil service on Good Friday.

Princess Helen, members of the regency council, the leading ecclesiastics of the country, and peasants from miles around, were present.

Queen Marie spoke to several of the survivors in the hospital, distributing presents, and consoled the relatives of the dead.

White House To Have 'Perfect' American Room

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(UN)—The green room of the White House soon will be an almost perfect example of early American interior decoration.

A chandelier of the Jeffersonian period, the latest item chosen for the room which has been undergoing a change since 1927, soon is to be installed.

Some of the new furniture and fixtures have been purchased by the government but a good portion have been donated by persons who decline to reveal their identity.

A large sofa standing against the green satin-hung wall opposite the white marble fireplace stands out prominently. This sofa is one of the anonymous gifts. A pair of black vases decorate the marble mantelpiece. They also were donated.

A screen, two small tables of beautiful early American workmanship, the chandelier which is soon to be hung, and various items of early American ornaments complete the gifts accepted by the government for the decoration of one of the three state rooms in the executive mansion. Other pieces necessary to the room's adequate seating capacity have been bought with funds from the annual appropriation for upkeep and maintenance of the White House.

This is the first of the three state rooms which are used for large formal receptions. It adjoins the east room on one side and the blue room on the other. Then there are the green and red rooms, the latter adjoining the state dining room.

All have satin damask covered walls, heavy window hangings over stiff white lace curtains, specially woven rugs, white marble mantels and many official portraits.

The green room had a medley of furnishings, following no particular period, before the refurnishing.

Bodenhamer Urges Universal Service

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, today urged passage in congress of the Reed-Smell resolution, calling for the creation of a commission to prepare a plan for universal service in time of war.

Commander Bodenhamer spoke in Brooklyn at the annual Americanism celebration of Brooklyn patriotic societies, sponsored by the American Legion.

He urged that the resulting plan be made into law to "provide for the universal mobilization and co-ordination of our resources and the elements of national life and business, including manpower, industries and material, in the event of war."

If such a bill is passed, he said, "you will take the profit out of war as nearly as it can be taken out of international conflict. You will take the burden off the shoulders of the men who carry the rifle, and distribute it equally as between the citizens, whether in or out of uniform."

Cuban Court Rules Against J. E. Barlow

HAVANA, Cuba, May 4.—(AP)—The superior court of the province of Havana yesterday dismissed the most recent petition filed by J. E. Barlow, American citizen, whose title to thousands of acres of Cuban land purchased more than 10 years ago has been contested by local interests.

Barlow's latest suit concerned the nullifying of 100 writs against more than 50 persons in the fight for possession of Los Montes de Barreto, a suburban tract of about 1,000 acres situated in Marianao.

Barlow's case has dragged through the courts for many years. He has one more resort, that of appeal to the supreme court.

In a judge it's Character

in a cigarette it's Taste

WHAT INTEGRITY is to a public official, taste is to a cigarette—the one quality that wins and holds public confidence and esteem.

ON TASTE AND TASTE ALONE, Chesterfield continues to gain smokers, both men and women. Chesterfields are mild—not strong or harsh—yet they have richness of flavor and aroma. They are not insipid or tasteless.

WITNESS THE STEADY GROWTH in the popularity of Chesterfield—a popularity which proves that with smokers, as with us, it's "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Methodist Board Approves Secrecy for Dry Drinkers

Says Publication of Names of Tippling Solons Would Work Injury, Maybe Unjustly, to Many.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(United News.)—The Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals believes it shameful for either "wet" or "dry" congressmen to drink, but concedes that the oldtimers who got used to their liquor back in the days when there was a bar in the capitol deserve a certain measure of sympathy. "Discussing the senate lobby committee's document, which is not going to be made public, and the drinking habits of various candidates, the board's weekly broadside, issued by Dr. Clarence True Wilson and Deeds Pickett, praised the committee's action. "The charges were unsubstantiated and might have been unjust to the men concerned," said the broadside. "An unproven charge, if given currency, may do irreparable damage to a man in public life. "Then the board demanded to know why the wets seem to think it is a crime for a dry to drink, and not for a wet. "Drinking liquor manufactured or produced in violation of law is certainly not upholding the constitution," it was stated. "The obvious conclusion is that when a congressman, wet or dry, drinks alcoholic liquor he violates his oath and stains his honor. "The impression that nearly all congressmen are particularly dry comes from the fact that they are not drinking. It is not true. The vast majority of dry congressmen are total abstainers, and a considerable number of wet congressmen do not take a drink for months on end. "There are some elderly men who have become accustomed to drinking back in the days of Shoomaker's (a famous bar here) and the capitol bar and who would find it very, very difficult to refrain entirely from intoxicants now. Such men deserve a certain measure of sympathy. "But a young congressman, wet or dry, who drinks, simply gives evidence that his sworn word doesn't mean very much to him. It is a question of loyalty to the country, of fidelity to an oath; not of belief in prohibition."

Erlanger Offers New Leading Lady

With Margaret Brayton, new leading lady for the Erlanger Theater Players, making her Atlanta debut tonight in the star role of "Smilin' Through," lovers of the legitimate stage find today an occasion of more than ordinary interest. Miss Brayton comes to Atlanta with a reputation second to none as an actress of surpassing charm and ability and patrons of the Erlanger theater are expecting tremendous things of her this week. Manager Lewis Haase and Director Harry McKee, who have watched her work in rehearsals, express confidence that the most optimistic is not going to be disappointed. The role which will introduce Miss Brayton is one of the most wistfully beautiful ever written. For a number of years it was the starring vehicle for Jane Cowl and, in fact, was the play that served to win for her not only American, but international fame. It is the story of a girl, killed 50 years ago, who comes back "Smilin' Through" the mists that separate this life from the next, to aid a pair of modern day lovers. Staged with exquisite beauty and filled with lines of most intense human sympathy—as well as abounding in clever comedy—the play is fast becoming recognized by critics as a new classic of the American stage. There will be the usual performance each night this week, with bargain matinees on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. Also, despite the addition of Miss Brayton, there will be no increase in the scale of prices.

AFRICAN HALF-CASTES ATTACK EUROPEANS

WORCESTER, South Africa, May 4.—(P)—Four mulattoes and one negro native were killed and 17 other persons injured in a three-cornered battle with police today.

Captain Barter, commandant of police here, was struck with a hatchet during the fight in the streets and his condition is critical. The police intervened during a row between mulattoes and negroes and finally were forced to open fire when stoned by the mob.

Outnumbered by the mob, the police were compelled to retreat. Reinforcements of 50 policemen were rushed from Cape Town, but the local police finally got the situation under control, though it was feared trouble might break out again.

The authorities say the row was started by drink-maddened mulattoes, known in South Africa as "colored persons," and not by the natives, who are pure negroes.

The fighting was the culminating point of trouble among the natives that has been brewing for the past year in this small township, which is within 100 miles of Cape Town. Two constables were wounded.

Late today the native quarter still was in a state of turmoil. The police did not dare venture into it but with banded heads stood guard in the European section. Crowds of Europeans gathered outside the police station ready to aid the authorities and protect themselves.

One constable had a remarkable escape from death. Struck over the heart, he was saved by a stout pocket-book, which was transfixed by the knife. His skin was merely scratched.

Innumerable offers of assistance from European civilians have been refused by the police for fear that this would lead only to greater resentment among the natives and a spread of the trouble.

Check of Prisoners Is Begun in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 4.—(P)—The first official check of prisoners at Ohio penitentiary since the fire April 21, when 320 convicts lost their lives, was started today by Ohio National Guardsmen.

The prisoners were lined up in the prison yard and ordered to give their names and numbers. Those questioned included the 600 men temporarily quartered in the stockade on the prisoners' baseball diamond.

The check, according to Colonel Robert Haubrich, commanding the national guardsmen who entered the prison last week to put down the mutiny, probably will not be accurate, as many of the convicts were expected to give fictitious names. The information will be checked with Bertillon records.

While the check was going on, guardsmen searched the stockade and reported finding a hole in the ground under one of the tents. It was about 10 feet deep and guardsmen said they believed some of the prisoners had planned an attempt to tunnel their way to freedom. Two shovels also were reported found in the tents. There were no weapons, however.

Guardsmen To Wear New 'Pershing' Caps

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(P)—The "Pershing cap," long-voiced and with stream-lined top, will be worn by national guardsmen during 1931. The war department today said $100,000 had been made available for the manufacture of 150,000 Pershing caps recently authorized for the national guard.

WILD RIOT FEATURED FILMING OF "MAMBA"

There are probably more thrills to the foot in "Mamba," which opens a week's engagement at the Fox today, than in any picture that has yet come to the audible screen. "Mamba" is not only all-talking, but all-technicolor, all-drama and filled with all human passions. It stars Eleanor Boardman, Jean Hersholt and Ralph Forbes. It has been said of Jean Hersholt, who portrays the part of a rich, but viciously mean plantation owner in German East Africa, that he will become "the best hated man in America" after the theater-going public sees and hears him in "Mamba."

One feature of "Mamba" is an up-rising of black savages, in film-making, the best of its kind. It was finally necessary to call out a flying squadron of Hollywood police before the riot could be brought to an end.

CAROLINA POSSE HUNTS TWO NEGRO ATTACKERS

Girl's Companion Is Shot Through Neck, Dragged From Car.

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., May 4.—(P)—An armed posse followed a trail of murder and terror today in an effort to apprehend two unidentified negroes who assaulted a daughter of a prominent Nash county family, and seriously wounded her companion.

The attack occurred last night on a highway near here. Frank Crickmore, with whom the girl was riding, was shot in the neck with a shotgun and dragged from his automobile.

The negroes, the girl told officers, then climbed into the machine with her. One of them drove a short distance down the highway, where, she said, both of them attacked her.

Although the negroes told her, she said, they would kill her if she gave an alarm, Miss Powell ran three miles to her home and told the story of the shooting and attack. A posse soon formed and began the search for the two negroes.

The first clew the posse found was the body of Joe Lee, aged negro, who had been beaten to death with an ax at his home a few miles from the scene of the attack. With Lee's body was Buck Hilliard, another negro, who had been beaten and left unconscious.

When he recovered consciousness, Hilliard told officers Lee had been killed and he himself had been beaten by two negroes last night. A shotgun and shells belonging to Hilliard were taken from the house. The officers believed the same negroes who killed Lee and beat Hilliard attacked Miss Powell and her companion.

Hilliard said the two negroes who beat him were dressed in overalls. One of them, he said, was a little taller than the other.

Generally Fair Weather Seen For City Today

It will be generally fair today and Tuesday in Atlanta and over Georgia as a whole, according to weather advice from Washington. However, probable local thundershowers in the northern and central portion of the state Tuesday afternoon may mar the day in those localities. Real summer heat in Atlanta was experienced Sunday when the mercury, starting from a low of 60, reached 86 as its high point.

Costa Rican Postal Chief on U. S. Visit

MIAMI, Fla., May 4.—(P)—Ricardo Toledo Escalante, postmaster general of Costa Rica, arrived here by airplane today en route to Washington to study facilities for development of international air mail.

The Central American official left by train tonight for Washington. Unable to speak English, he talked with newspapermen here through an interpreter.

He said he plans to stay in Washington for a month, during which time he will go thoroughly into the international air mail situation with United States officials. He predicted an enormous development in trade between the Americas as result of increased international air mail facilities, he said, in response to a query.

"I enjoyed the trip here immensely," Senor Toledo Escalante asserted through his interpreter. "We left Managua yesterday and spent the night at Belize, British Honduras. The rapid travel from Central America into the United States is remarkable."

Four Women Aliens Risk Perilous Entry

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 4.—(P)—Five aliens, a man and four women, dared the swirling waters of the Niagara river in a rowboat early today, but were captured by immigration border patrolmen upon landing on the American shore. The party crossed perilously close to the whirlpool rapids and the members were endeavoring to clamber up the steep embankment when the officers appeared. A man giving his name as Paul Duce, Niagara Falls, Ont., was held as a smuggler. He accompanied the aliens on their trip, officials charge. He was taken to a hospital after receiving severe injuries when

Barstow Recovering From Crash Injuries

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 4.—(P)—Jack Barstow, holder of an unofficial world's gliding record, was resting easily at a hospital here today recovering from injuries suffered last night when his sail plane was hurled to the ground by a gust of wind. Physicians said the 24-year-old San Diego glider pilot would be in bed two months and that he would be forced to use crutches for perhaps another two months. Barstow is suffering from a broken vertebra and superficial cuts.

He had been gliding off Point Loma, near here, for approximately eight hours in an attempt to officially break the world's record for motorless flight when the mishap occurred.

William Van Dusen, official observer of the flight, said a strong wind was blowing at the time the accident occurred at 6:30 p. m. Barstow blew over by a group of watchers at an altitude of about 800 feet. He veered sharply toward the bystanders and then swung his craft quickly away again, disappearing over a small hill, where he crashed in a canyon.

Unusual features increase the value of the FORD TRUCK

THE Ford 1½-ton truck offers you long, reliable haulage service at remarkably low cost. Many features of the chassis combine to make the Ford truck a value far above its price. Important among them is the new rear axle, which is exceptionally sturdy. It has a spiral bevel gear of special design, with straddle-mounted pinion. Two gear-ratios are optional. The housing is unusually strong. The axle shafts are heavier, and because of the three-quarter floating type of construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

The new wheel and tire equipment is a feature which you will find both convenient and economical. Dual rear wheels can be installed at small additional cost. Balloon tires of one size are used throughout, with the dual equipment, so that all six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare need be carried.

Other features which add to the value of the Ford truck are the efficient four-cylinder engine, which develops 40 horsepower at 2200 r.p.m.; the 4-speed transmission, which gives a wide, flexible range of speed and power; the new front brakes, which have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear wheels, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety; and the new front axle and spring, which are heavier and stronger, as are front radius-rod, king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings.

These and many other features indicate how well the Ford truck is designed for reliable service under every condition. You can inspect the truck at your Ford dealer's.

In addition to the Ford 1½-ton truck chassis, there is a commercial-car chassis to meet light-delivery requirements. A wide range of body-types is available for each model.

FORSYTH MAN KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Central of Georgia Passenger Crashes Into Car When Engine Stalls.

MACON, Ga., May 4.—(P)—Dudley Cannon, 35, of Forsyth, Ga., was killed this afternoon when his automobile was struck by a Savannah-Atlanta Central of Georgia passenger train.

The accident happened at Smarrs, Ga., about 20 miles north of here, according to reports from the railroad. Cannon had been seen in the neighborhood for two or three hours.

Just before time for the train to arrive he started to drive across the railroad tracks. The automobile stalled and he got out to ascertain the cause. It was while he was standing beside the machine that the locomotive struck him.

There is a curve at the point and although the locomotive's whistle was sounded, witnesses said, Cannon made no effort to get out of the way. The body was taken to Forsyth, Ga.

Cannon was a World War veteran and was unmarried.

The train that figured in the accident was No. 1, leaving here at 1:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The train was not derailed but was delayed for 30 minutes.

GEORGIAN SEES LUXURY AS BREEDER OF CRIME

University Professor Also Traces Divorce to Over-Indulgence.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—(P)—Professor Roland M. Harper, of the University of Georgia, believes "the present crime wave and rapidly increasing divorce rate in the United States are probably due in a large measure to too much pleasure seeking and indulgence in luxuries."

He expressed this view after a study of the social trends and vital statistics of Prince Edward Island, Canada, which he contrasts with the United States.

The Georgia professor said he found little crime and almost no divorce among inhabitants of the island and also simplicity of life and little wealth.

"In the course of a year," he said, "it costs about as much to own and operate an automobile as to feed, clothe and educate a child, so an automobile used generally for pleasure means one less child in the family and smaller families mean more divorces."

He pointed out that in California with about one automobile to every three persons last year and a per capita wealth in 1927 of $4,007 there was one divorce to every 3.3 marriages in 1928. In Georgia, he said, with one car to 7.7 persons in 1929 and a per capita wealth of $1,306 in 1922 there was one divorce to every 14 marriages in 1928.

The per capita consumption of coffee in the United States had increased about 50 per cent in the last 20 years, he said, "and all this is probably partly responsible for the increase of crime and divorce, although perhaps few smokers would concede that."

The tiny craft in which they had set out to cruise from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Ore., virtually submerged in the middle of Buzzard's bay, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Morrison, of New York, were rescued this morning by two unidentified occupants of a speed boat and transferred to an oil tanker which brought them and their damaged boat to the city late today.

The two had remained in the water for three-quarters of an hour after their boat had capsized. Their rescuers were a numb from clutching the painter and their voices hoarse from cries for aid. Their mishap occurred several hours after they had set out from Cape Horn, Maine, on a pleasure trip, which had been delayed by winds.

Captain Raymond Edward Hutchinson, of Portland, Maine, in charge of the Texas tanker 146, bound from Bangor, Maine, to this city, watched the boat in its little bay, the wind and waves tossed it about. Shortly afterward he saw that the boat had capsized and he put his ship about.

As he drew within hailing distance a speed boat raced across the water and the two occupants lifted the Morrisons from their precarious position. They were then transferred to the tanker, whose crew hoisted their boat aboard.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Morrison appeared little the worse for their experience, but say they will not attempt to continue their cruise until they procure a larger boat.

Congressional Party Pays Virginia Visit. CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 4.—(P)—A Washington party of 130, including two United States senators, 17 members of the house, with their families and the wives and families of other congressmen were here tonight on the conclusion of a pleasure trip through northern and central Virginia.

The trip included visits to Virginia caverns and places of historical interest, and was concluded with a pilgrimage to Monticello, the home of Jefferson, and the University of Virginia. They returned to the capital tonight.

Most of the delegation, represented western and mid-western states. The delegation, however, Arthur R. Gould, Maine, and Otis F. Glenn, Illinois.

Several of the representatives were members of the house public lands committee, among them being Representative English, of California, who spoke briefly at a dinner for the party here tonight.

Nashville Road House Is Raided by Agents. NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 4.—(P)—The Clearwater Beach Night Club was the scene of early morning revelry when prohibition agents entered today.

W. O. Shofner, deputy prohibition administrator, reported that bottles were emptied hurriedly and highball glasses dashed to the floor when he and agents came on the scene. He said he and his assistants gathered up waste liquor and empty bottles, and cited Paul Goldberg, operator, and 15 assistants, to appear before A. V. McLane, United States district attorney tomorrow.

In addition, a dozen guests were ordered to appear before the district attorney, Shofner said.

A charge was placed against only one man today. Shofner said R. J. Malone, bouncer, was charged with resisting arrest and obstructing officers after he attempted to keep officers from entering the night club.

LOWNDES COUNTY POPULATION GAINS. VALDOSTA, Ga., May 4.—Complete census figures for Lowndes county were announced Saturday by S. D. Register, supervisor for the 15th district, showing an increase in population of 4,756 in 10 years.

In 1920 the population was 26,521 and for 1930, 31,277.

Three districts show a decrease and the remaining six show substantial increases. Clayville, Cat Creek and Naylor districts show the decreases, and the lack of paved highways is believed to be responsible for the poor showing.

The Valdosta district, which includes the suburban population just outside the city limits, shows a population of 19,310 against 14,096 in 1920. This is practically Valdosta population, although not included in the rapidly developing subdivisions which will probably soon be taken into the city, some portions having already been asked for admission as a part of the

Science Draws Nations Closer During Past Week

Planes, Phones and Rails

BY ALEXANDER H. UHL,
Cable Editor, The Associated Press.

The sweep of progress again drew the peoples of the world a little closer together during the past week with the opening of a faster mail service between North and South America, the inauguration of radio telephone between London and her far-off dominions, the opening of a new railroad in the Soviet Union.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh added to his laurels by inaugurating a seven-day air-mail service between the United States and Buenos Aires, cutting down considerably on the former time required. He described his flight as an "eventful but very pleasant" task, and managed to do something he hasn't done on previous flights by tapping out his own radio messages.

Prime Minister MacDonald in London had a 12,000-mile radio telephone conversation with Premier Scullin in Canberra, Australia, the conversation coming through excellently at both places. Several days previous radio conversation was carried on from a moving train in Canada to London.

Soviet Russia opened a modern 1,700-mile railroad of its own construction connecting the present Central Asia railroad at Aris, Uzbekistan, with the Trans-Siberian railroad at Novosibirsk. The new road changes the whole face of middle Asia, pulling together great regions once only accessible by primitive means.

Maneuvers Continue.

But while modern scientific developments were scoring these triumphs, the historic problem of the relations between Great Britain and her Indian empire was still holding the attention of the world. The Indian nationalists, led by Mahatma Gandhi, and the British government, represented by Viceroy Irwin, continued to maneuver for position. There were some disorders, but these were of a minor nature and in general the week passed quietly. Mahatma Gandhi, still unarrested, though two of his sons and many of his leaders are in jail, went on with his program of civil disobedience coupled with his doctrine of non-violence. He was planning to extend his efforts, possibly to Bombay itself. In addition to disobedience of the salt monopoly laws, he authorized the non-payment of land revenue. Foreign cloth was burned at several places.

The government held a tight rein and even drew it a little tighter. Arrests of civil disobedience leaders continued and even the arrest of Gandhi himself was looked upon in some quarters as inevitable. The viceroy reinstated the press censorship laws of 1910 for native papers, saying "the spirit of revolution, fostered by civil disobedience, is beginning to emerge in dangerous form."

Khyber Closed.

Far up along the northern border was a tense situation for the British Raj. Peshawar, at the gateway to Afghanistan and a place of the utmost strategic importance, was restless. Khyber pass itself was closed and a tight censorship was imposed. Some of the native troops at Peshawar were reported to have become mutinous and for a time this revived memories of the old Sepoy mutiny of 1857, but the trouble was held in check. While the situation there was tense, no active disorders of importance were reported.

With the coming of summer, China again was the center of disturbing developments. In the north, Yen Hsi-Shan, "model" governor of the province of Shansi, announced that a congress of northern leaders would be held in Peiping which his officials have taken over and set up to set up a "national" government and to overthrow Chiang Kai-Shek, president.

The Nanking government, in reply, announced that it would undertake a military campaign to subdue the "rebels" and occupy the areas now held by these leaders.

Names To Be Changed.

Incidentally the northern leaders said they would change the name of Peiping, or "northern peace" as Nanking calls the old capital, back to Peking, thus adding to the difficulties of map-makers and others trying to keep up with the latest cartographic developments.

United States naval delegates came home to a cordial welcome with the London treaty all sealed and signed and Secretary of State Stimson turned it over to President Hoover immediately. The president in turn passed it on to the senate for its approval or disapproval.

Italy during the week announced a naval building program for the year of 42,000 tons, including one 10,000-ton cruiser, two scout cruisers, four destroyers and 22 submarines.

French official circles expressed uneasiness at the Italian program, pointing out that the French program was just 43,000 tons.

Neither France nor Italy accepted tonnage limitations at the naval conference, though both agreed to certain technical decisions reached at London. Consequently both are free to go ahead for the most part with their own programs.

May Day was quiet all over the world. There were minor sporadic clashes between police and communists and some times between communists and socialists in some European cities, but for the greater part it was one of the quietest May days in many years. Moscow celebrated with a huge parade and pageant.

Tourists Show Greater Interest In State Parks

The Georgia forest service reports an auspicious opening of the season at the state forest parks at Neel Gap on the Appalachian scenic highway in north Georgia and at Indian Springs in middle Georgia. Greater crowds have visited the forest parks in April than usual, it was reported.

An appropriation made by the state legislature for improvements at Indian Springs now is being spent to add to the attractiveness of the grounds and to the comfort of visitors. The wooded area has been improved and trees have been marked with metal signs giving their scientific and common names.

Vogel forest park at Neel Gap has been provided with running water, picnic accommodations and overnight camp grounds, and automobile parking facilities have been enlarged. Mountain hiking is a main attraction of this state resort, and mountain trails have been put in order leading to the crest of Blood mountain, where the American Legion memorial is to be erected, and to other points of interest.

Creation of Wants Progress, Pastor Says

"Economists tell us that 100 years ago the average person had 72 wants, of which 16 were necessities, and that the average person today has 484 wants, of which 94 are necessities. An ultra-modern home that contained all the time and labor saving mechanisms would have within it over 100 of those mechanisms." Thus, Dr. W. T. McElveen, speaking to the United Congregational church at the Atlanta Woman's Club, illustrated how progress means the gratification of old wants and the creation of new ones.

Continuing, he said:

"Christianity aids in this creation of new wants. It deepens in human nature the capacity of being unsatisfied, one of the sublime things in man. A man might as well order the shroud in which he expects to be buried if he is altogether satisfied with his achievements and attainments. Business, and even the church, have decreed that there shall be a retiring age after which the hitherto busy man is condemned to sit on the veranda and see the sun go down on his career. But some do not wish to be thus superannuated. They point out that rest and rest are words that look and sound alike and may be intimately related. The words, groove and grave, may describe the same thing. Blessed is the man who keeps on discovering new wants and tries to satisfy them."

Lakewood Amusement Devices Are Inspected

Arnold Aiman, president, and George P. Smith, Jr., general manager, of the Recreation Service Corporation of Philadelphia, operators of amusement devices in 18 cities of the United States, paid their annual trip of inspection to Lakewood park Sunday, where their firm has amusement devices in operation.

The amusement executives arrived on the busiest day of the Lakewood season so far and saw the park running full tilt. Manager Oscar Mills, whose force has just completed many repairs and a complete renovation of all the pleasure devices, showed the Pennsylvanians over the park.

The General Amusement Operation Company, a subsidiary of the service corporation, operates the merry-go-round at Lakewood. The corporation has holdings in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Texas and Georgia. Previous to coming to Atlanta visits were paid at Cincinnati, Dayton, Youngstown, Cleveland and Indianapolis and they will go from here to Dallas, Houston and New York before returning to Philadelphia.

Mr. Aiman is president of the Jenkinson Bank at Jenkinson, Pa., and Mr. Smith is an executive officer of the National Association of Amusement Parks.

WOMEN WILL OPPOSE INTERNATIONAL CODE

Delegates at Hague Have Not Acquired "Liberal" Ideas, Reason.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—A demand that the United States not participate in the code of international law formulated by more than 40 nations at The Hague is to be laid before the house foreign affairs committee Tuesday by the woman's party.

A delegation of 100 women will oppose adoption of the code by this government on the ground that it discriminates against women and would deprive them of equal rights.

Grace Phelps, of the Inter-American Commission of Women, said in a statement today the conference at The Hague was composed of delegates from countries which do not have liberal ideas concerning women's rights. A copy of the treaty has been brought to this country by David Hunter Miller, head of the American delegation, she said.

"The treaty was not signed by the United States, because it contains, among other distinctions," he continued, "discriminations against women on the question of a woman's right to her own independent citizenship, irrespective of marital ties."

The hearing before the committee was sponsored by Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, democrat, Florida, who, Miss Phelps said, had been a "victim of the laws which force a woman to take her husband's nationality." Mrs. Owen is the widow of a British army officer and her election was contested on the basis of citizenship.

THE HOME OF MR. AND MRS. KILLY.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

In wasted time is something lost. Of which we never can count the cost.

—Killy the Sparrow Hawk.

It was true that Killy the Sparrow Hawk and Mrs. Killy were living in a hollow in a tree. The tree was beside the Long Lane. A large branch high up had died and this was hollow. Yellow Wing the Flicker had hollowed it out. Peter could remember when Yellow Wing had been at work there. He used to hear the rat-a-tat of Yellow Wing when he used another limb nearby for a drum.

So when Danny Meadow Mouse told Peter that the Killys had a nest in a hollow in a tree, Peter remembered that old home of Yellow Wing's. He hopped out in the Long Lane, where he could look up at that dead limb. Sure enough, right on the top of it sat Killy the Sparrow Hawk. He was sitting very straight, as is his way. A little way below him Peter could see a round hole. That was the entrance that had been cut by Yellow Wing the Flicker long ago. While Peter was staring up at it, a face appeared in that doorway. Mrs. Killy was looking out.

"I thought as much," said Peter to himself. "They have taken possession of Yellow Wing's old home and I suppose that by now they have eggs there. I wonder if they built a nest inside. I know Yellow Wing didn't. I have talked with Mrs. Flicker and she says that building a nest in a hollow like that is a waste of time. She says that when she makes the hollow she leaves some tiny chips at the bottom, and these make the best kind of a bed. She says all the Woodpecker family do this way. But Winsome Bluebird and Skimmer the Swallow and Jenny Wren and Tommy Tit and Chickadee and Cresty the Flycatcher and Speckles the Starling and Bully the English Sparrow all build nests inside the hollows in trees or the houses they use. I wonder if Mrs. Killy does. I wish she would come down here and I could talk to her."

As if in answer, Mrs. Killy came out and circled overhead, while Killy left his perch and disappeared through the round doorway of the home. A moment later she came down and caught a big beetle just a little way from where Peter was. She flew over to a post to eat this beetle and Peter hopped over to the foot of the post. You see, although Mrs. Killy was a hawk, Peter wasn't afraid of her. She was too small for Peter to fear.

"How do you do, Mrs. Killy?"

Peter, "but thought I had better stay over in the bushes along the Long Lane until I can be sure that none of the big members of your family is around. I didn't know that you were living over here until just now."

"There are many things you don't know, Peter Rabbit," replied Mrs. Killy.

"I know it," replied Peter humbly. "I know it and that is why I am always trying to learn more. For instance, I know where your home is. I know when that house of yours was made, and by whom. But there is one thing about it I don't know and that I want to know."

"What is that?" inquired Mrs. Killy.

"Have you built a nest inside there?" Peter inquired.

"Have I built a nest?" exclaimed Mrs. Killy scornfully. "Of course I haven't. Why should I? Why should I go to all that trouble? That house was good enough for the Flickers and it is good enough for Killy and me. No, sir, I wasted no time building a nest. There is a nice bed of old chips in there for my eggs and that is all I want."

"How many eggs are there?" asked Peter.

"What business is that of yours, Peter Rabbit?" demanded Mrs. Killy rather sharply.

"None whatever," replied Peter rather meekly. "I am just curious." (Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution.)

Father Kills Suitor Because He Was Old

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 4.—(UN)—A few hours before his daughter was to wed a widower 25 years her senior, Felix Dziobak today shot and killed John Kus, the prospective bridegroom.

Kus and his fiancée, Bertha Dziobak, 18, were emerging from mass at St. Hedwig's Roman Catholic church, where the banns of matrimony had been read for the third time, when they encountered Dziobak and his 15-year-old son, Julius.

The betrothed pair asked Dziobak to attend the wedding ceremony set for 2 p. m. He did not accept but consented to enter with his son the rear seat of Kus' automobile for a ride homeward.

Kus had driven only a short distance when Dziobak fired a revolver three times, the bullets entering the back of Kus' neck. The father then turned the weapon on his daughter but the cartridge failed to explode. He leaped from the auto and ran, but was overtaken by a patrolman.

Song Writer Faces Life Imprisonment

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Freed six months ago of a life sentence because of his own plea after he studied law in prison, Jordan S. Murphy, once a song writer in Tin Pan alley, was placed under arrest again today. If convicted, he may again face a life sentence.

A messenger boy who tried to buy 22 tickets to a communion breakfast from the Rev. Father John J. O'Brien and get change from a $103 check led detectives to Murphy, who was arrested on a charge of suspicion of forgery.

Murphy was the author of "Some Day Your Heart May Be Broken Like Mine" and other songs. On the eve of his wedding day several years ago detectives arrested him for forging a check. He went to prison.

Three months he went to prison and in 1919 was sentenced to life as a fourth offender. In Sing Sing and Clinton he spent his time studying law and writing songs. One of his compositions, "I'm Dazed Over Lizzy," was sung by Fanny Brice.

Then he discovered that one offense, involving a $27 check, was a felony in Connecticut where he was convicted, but a misdemeanor in New York. He presented his arguments before the courts and was freed.

PASSION FLOWER

By Kathleen Norris

FIRST INSTALLMENT.

The Pringle house stood three stories high, lifted upon a dark old sidewalk like a menace. It had been built far back in its own park 50 years before, but the topography of San Francisco's streets had changed since then.

Catherine Pringle mounted old wooden steps, between bulging bulkheads dimly draped with vines, and walked around the house on a brick path that had buckled itself into dangerous humps and hollows. In the winter dark she smelled decaying leaves; a palm tree, high above her head in the dark, clashed its spears drearily.

She felt her way to the side entrance, and stepped into a close, cold hall smelling of apples, dust and decaying wood. A dim light, in a red glass globe evenly blistered, burned against a stained side wall. The hallway was narrow and arched; it gave upon a larger room from which the dining room and the spacious parlors opened.

Cassy went on through the front hall, and mumbled the stairs. They were not wide stairs, but they had a pretentious curve and sweep; they were carpeted in red with old brass rods.

Familiar smells, dusty, carpety, cold food smells, and presently the penetrating thread of carbolic through them all.

A man of 60 came into the upper hall and raised his hand to turn up the gas head over his head. Cassy was startled; her father did not usually come home until late on Saturday afternoons. He went to the club on Saturdays, and played dominoes.

"What's all this mean?" he said coldly.

"I don't understand," Cassy countered innocently.

"This staggering in at this hour?" her father demanded.

"Staggering!" she said proudly, quickly.

"Well—well!" he said impatiently. She knew he was neither angry nor interested; just cross.

"I was playing bridge at Jean Redding's," she said. Her tone grew sympathetic.

"No dominoes?" he asked. "And do girls play cards until after six in the shade?" he asked. But his tone was a shade mollified, and Cassy, who knew every graduation of her father's heart, "Your mother and I were anxious about you," he said.

"I'm sorry," she said blithely, readily. She could say it as easily as draw her breath, and then walk on little by it.

"Cassy," began her father, impressively, and paused.

"Sir?"

"Folker has gone."

"Folker?" she was surprised. She turned, a tall, glowing girl in a handsome coat with a beaver collar, and a wide-brimmed black hat, and looked at him.

"He was impudent to papa," Mrs. Pringle, small, faded, infinitely tired, timid and drab, came out into the hall to contribute meekly.

"Folker was?" Leroy Pringle asked roundly, in his full, pompous voice. Cassy saw that her unfortunate mother was trapped again, and gave her father a scornful look. Mrs. Pringle trembled and fluttered.

"Why—why, didn't you say so, papa?" she faltered.

"No, I said nothing of the kind!" the man answered flatly and firmly. He looked over his glasses sternly. "I wanted to speak to Cassy," he suggested.

"Oh, go right ahead, papa! I thought you'd finished."

"No, I hadn't finished," Leroy Pringle said, and sighed. He turned toward the stairs. "It's of no consequence."

"Please, papa—"

Cassy remained in the hall only long enough to see the majestically descending head go down into the great vacuum of the stairway, then she looked at her mother, shrugged, smiled sardonically, and crossed the hall to her own room. Mrs. Pringle trailed forlornly after her.

"I thought he was in a real good mood this morning, but I guess something went wrong at the club!" she said in a whisper, following the girl in.

Cassy took off her handsome coat and hung it in an old-fashioned wardrobe with other handsome garments. She put her hat on the shelf above, and stepped out of her shoes.

"It seems real chilly tonight," the older woman, who had a crocheted shawl about her shoulders, offered uncertainly. There was a nice new one there—Margaret Paine's.

"The San Mateo Paine's?" Mrs. Pringle asked, interested.

"Oh, my, no! She works in the library. They live round here on San Jose avenue in one of those cottages near the school."

"She knew who you were?"

"I don't know."

"I guess she did," Mrs. Pringle said, in satisfaction. "Every one out here knows our house."

She herself had been proud of it for the 25 years of her married life. She imagined that everybody in the whole city of San Francisco was proud of it.

"Was there a dress there that cost what yours did?"

"No, I don't think there was. They were all taking it in."

"I guess they were," said Mrs. Pringle.

Cassy was in a worn old blue jersey now; she turned around at her bureau and looked at her mother under a bushy cloud of soft brushed hair that was lustrous, silky and black.

"She's terribly pretty—she's prettier than I ever was," her mother thought, in a sort of astonishment. The girl's skin was a clear, almost transparent brown, and stained with scarlet on the cheeks; her big eyes flashed with liquid fire. Her lashes curled back with spectacular length and curve; she had the astonished aspect of a small child, when she opened her eyes wide. When she tossed the cloud of silky hair backward and it fell in gipsy ringlets on her shoulders, she looked foreign to her mother. Often, without knowing it, Cassy made her mother uneasy.

"I'm glad to have you go 'round with girls of your own age, and have a good time," Mrs. Pringle said. Cassy laughed shortly.

"Mama, when you were young, did you ever go to dances?"

"No, I never went out much, Cassy. My folks didn't approve of it. And then, I was only 22 when your father married me."

"How'd you meet papa?" she presently asked, illy.

"He came to consult my father—your grandfather was a doctor you know. It was after Gertrude's mother had died; poor papa, I remember how dark and sad he looked—left with little Gertrude—"

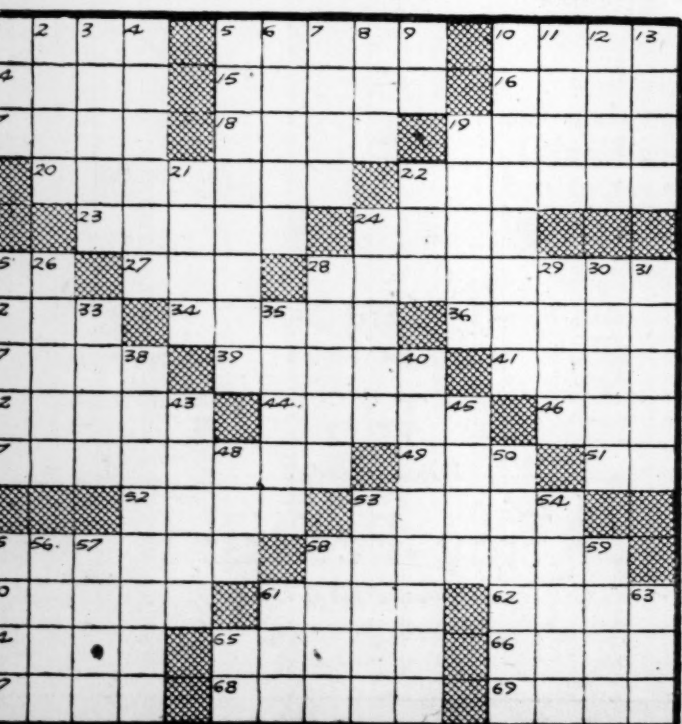

"He was 40, mama," she asked.

"Forty-one," Mrs. Pringle sighed for no obvious reason.

She and Cassy went downstairs together, and the gloom, heaviness and dullness of the old mansion enveloped the girl like a tangible cloud.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Talk Is Cheap

GASOLINE ALLEY—WHO HAS A BETTER NAME?

Lee Meadows Blows Up in Eighth; Pels Sweep Series, 6 to 0

ATLANTA BRIS CARLYLE FROM KANSAS CITY

Do not score R. J. Spiller, business manager of the Crackers, for spending several days and several dollars in telegraph tolls getting that new Southern league classification rule straightened out.

The Head Man in Memphis uttered a proclamation that was worth plenty to the Crackers. It virtually saved Johnny Dobbs' life. It came in the old-fashioned nick of time just like the United States cavalry from Fort Kearney.

But R. J. Spiller simply couldn't believe it. For all these years he has been on the receiving end of many a ruling. Every one of those past rulings has been a jolt to the chin. The 14-game assessment in 1928 is just a sample.

This one was a break. It was the first break this franchise has received in all these years.

No wonder Mr. Spiller couldn't believe it. No wonder he went slow and found out all about the matter even to the point of asking every question in the book.

ONE FIRM EXECUTIVE.

There is a positive tone to the decisions of John D. Martin that commands respect. When he says a thing, it is said. He was asked to rule on the status of a player or two belonging to Memphis and Chattanooga. He did so, quoting the new interpretation of the Class B law.

President John probably had no idea he was starting such an avalanche in the classification of personnel. No doubt he was as much surprised as everyone else that the decision was so cataclysmic.

But he stuck by his guns like a man and heard the rookie rule tumbling down about his ears without flinching.

GOT ONE WINNER, ANYHOW.

Jack Knight, the Coast league pitcher, finally reported to the Crackers in New Orleans, after eight or ten days delay. Information is that he drove across lots in his automobile.

This column probably will miss the Kentucky Derby a mile, but it must be scored one in guessing that Knight would report in the traditional manner of Coast league players—on four wheels.

SECOND GUESSING.

Harry Salsinger, in the Detroit News the other day, dug up an old remark made by George Duncan, the great British professional, that shows how futile even the deepest thinkers may look when trying to swim in the involved psychology of golf.

Years ago George Duncan said: "I do not believe Bobby Jones will ever win a championship. He is too much of an artist." Duncan meant that Jones never thought in terms of results but in terms of perfection in shot making. He never played safe. He never considered percentage.

It is easy now to loll in a chair and decide that Duncan blundered in overlooking a factor. While Bobby Jones was playing for perfection in shot making, he came close to that ideal and accumulated a few championships in the process.

The very fact that Bobby forgets results and plays for par and perfection is what makes him such a deadly medal player.

GEORGIA'S HARNESS HORSES.

Georgia has only one breeder of harness horses represented in the nominations for the $26,000 Kentucky Futurity—Walter T. Candler. Yet his list of 25 mares in foal ranks sixth in the list of 707 nominations and puts Georgia seventh among the states.

The Kentucky Futurity is one of the most highly regarded racing events in America, both in antiquity and in caliber. Every breeder who is "anybody" never fails to enter his most promising foals in this storied contest.

The breeding of harness horses has shifted in geography slightly in the past 25 years. Kentucky still leads by a tremendous majority; over half the futurity entries are from that state. But next in order come Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, Indiana and Ohio with Georgia a good seventh. Tennessee once a productive center, has faded with only one entry.

DOUG WYCOFF.

Doug Wycoff, former Georgia Tech football star and now a professional player and coach, has signed as athletic director at a boys' camp in Charlestown, R. I.

VANDY IN EARNEST.

Five games have been arranged for Vanderbilt's "B" football team next fall. The Commodore authorities were serious about their plan to have a sub-varsity in the field this year after all.

Louie Hardage, assistant coach, has arranged a schedule that includes home and home games with the Kentucky "B" varsity, and Indiana, Ohio State and Notre Dame in Nashville.

Meanwhile, coaches in our vicinity are wondering how they can put one "A" varsity in the field and not have their heads knocked off every Saturday.

FOUR IN A ROW.

Afterthought: Our Crackers must have taken that new "B" classification seriously. They have played like rookies for four days.

Bainbridge Plays

Tallahassee Nine Famed Pug, Dies

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., May 4.—Bainbridge will play Tallahassee, Fla., on the local diamond Thursday, May 8, in the initial engagement into the Georgia-Florida league. "Red" Mosely, of Climax, manager of the team, is having daily tryouts and it is said that indications point for a strong team from Deatur county. Local merchants donated the uniforms for the players and all other necessary incidentals have been looked after. The sport, for Bainbridge, sponsored by the local post, American Legion, is in charge of the following committee: John Tyler, Charles Hodges, Harry Lettice, Dr. H. H. LEE MEADOWS BLOWS IN 8TH; PELS WIN, 6-0

New Orleans Starts Scoring Spruce on Pitcher Bean's Double.

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—Belve Bean not only applied the kalsomine brush to the Atlanta Crackers before a crowd of 8,000 fans this afternoon at Heinenmann park, but he dropped the winning wallop in knocking in the run in the eighth inning to break up a 6-0 pitchers' duel with the veteran Lee Meadows. Five more runs followed that run across the plate, making the score 6 to 0 in favor of the Pelicans and giving them a clean sweep over the Crackers in the three-game series.

The game furnished two heroes. Bean the winning hero, and the bespectacled Meadows, losing pitcher. When Meadows left the mound in the eighth inning after having caved-in before a vicious Pelican attack which followed up on good breaks, he was given the greatest round of applause ever handed any visiting ball player, winning or losing.

TRAGIC DEFEAT.

Meadows' defeat was tragic. For seven innings he had pitched sterling ball—had outpitched Bean, as a matter of fact, even though the score of runs, hits and errors, even, overcame early troubles, straightened out after the fourth inning and began to pitch like a fiend, but from the very first round to the end of the seventh Meadows pitched masterly ball. One clean hit, a two-bagger by Bonura in the second, and two scratchy singles summed up the result of the Pelican attack.

But more scratch hits and some real tough luck were in store for Meadows. Montague, leading off the Pels eighth, lifted a tall pop fly in short right field. Rosenthal came in for it, Sheehan went back for it. They got mixed up and the ball dropped safely. Anderson, bunting, forced Montague at second on a clever play by "Big" Stock.

Then came the turning point in the game—the point where one called ball and then one had bit of judgment probably spelled the ball game.

CURVING 'EM.

All afternoon Meadows had been feeding Belve Bean curve balls at bat and Bean, one of the best hitting pitchers in the league, had been helpless. Meadows continued using curve on Bean as the big youngster followed Anderson to bat in the eighth and Meadows had two strikes on him.

Then he caught Bean off guard and slipped a fast one in on the outside corner. From up on the roof the ball looked over, but it might have been high or low. Anyhow, "Bull-dog" Williams called it a ball. Meadows, who undoubtedly was beginning to tire, let out his first squawk of the day.

Still riled, Lee then cut in another fast one and this time Bean wasn't caught asleep. He smashed a terrific line drive over Langford's head in left field, and Don Anderson came all the way home while Bean doctored at second.

Then he launched a clean single over second, scoring Bean and Powers. When Meadows walked Deane, Johnny Dobbs lifted him and sent Nick Dumovich in, as it was obvious Meadows was done for.

Instead of letting Jim Blakesley face Dumovich's southpawing, Larry Grier replaced him with Tommy Taylor and Taylor brought Harrington and Blakesley in with a single to center. Deane stole third and scored on the catch of Bonura's fly to left and then Montague, up for his second time of batting, fled to right to end the inning.

That is the story of the ball game. By the time the Pelicans had run up that lead, Bean was pitching in the best form of his career. And the Pelicans, who had been playing behind him in grand style all afternoon wound up the day by retiring the Crackers with a scintillating double play in the ninth.

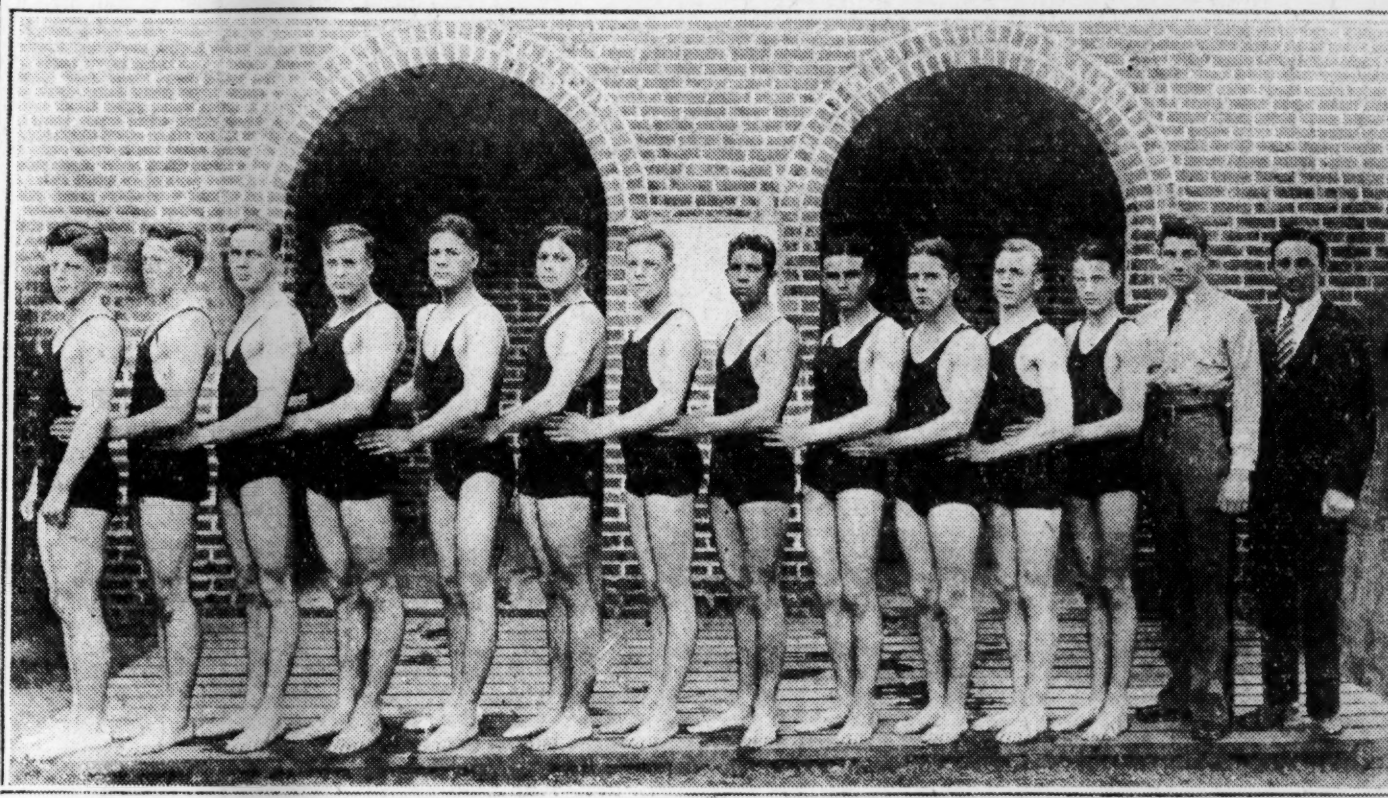

Bean had been in hot water twice during the early innings. Once he pitched his way out and once Mike Powers, Andy Harrington, Eddie Montague and Don Anderson all teamed together and ranked him out. In the second, Rosenthal led off with a single and Walker walked. Stock advanced them both on a near bang. Bean then retired Wingo on a pop fly to Bonura and Meadows hoisted a pop fly to short. That was pitching.

Grimes poked a mighty drive to the center field fence to start off the Crackers' fourth. The ball was so hard hit it struck the fence and bounced right back into the hands of Mike Powers. Mike, the mightiest thrower.

VOLS GET HITS BUT LOSE GAMES

Nashville Outfits Southern Clubs During Past Week.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 4.—(AP)—A demonstration of a team outshining and out scoring all rivals, yet winning less than half of its games, was given by the Volunteers of Nashville the past week in the Southern Association.

Clarence Rowland's crew slammed out 38 safe hits and scored 22 runs to lead in both departments by safe margins. New Orleans led the pack with four victories in five starts yet collected but 43 hits and 21 runs. Close behind the Pelicans in games won, and pressing the Vols for hitting and scoring honors were the Memphis Chickasaws with 84 safe bingles and 46 scores. The Tribe won five of seven contests.

In all, the eight teams, in 25 games, batted out 1,232 safeties, scored 257 times, and made 51 errors.

EVEN BREAK.

The Chickasaws and the Pelicans were the even break in games won. Atlanta and Mobile broke even in six games each. The champion, Birmingham, won four and lost but one victory in five games.

Defensively the Pelicans showed the way, giving up but 14 markers. Nashville held the most lenient, allowing the opposition the same number which they made themselves—52.

The Barons exhibited the poorest scoring punch, getting only 18 across the plate, and also were weakest at bat, collecting only 39 safe hits.

Fielding honors were divided three ways—New Orleans, Chattanooga and Little Rock each committing but eight errors. Mobile and Nashville committed 13 misplays each for the most bobbles afield. To Little Rock's Travelers were homerun honors. The Potters rapped off five circuit blows. Chattanooga, Memphis and Nashville followed with two each.

To Frank Luce, of Nashville, who slammed out two homers, went in dividing honors. Others hitting for the circuit were Wingo, Atlanta; Russell, Mobile; Campbell and Wadley, Memphis; Montague, New Orleans; Dashiell and Goltz, Chattanooga; and Tait, Rose, Koster, Mulcahy and Shinault, Little Rock.

The following table shows the number of games each team played the last week, including Saturday, those won and lost, and the runs, hits, errors, opponents' runs and homers:

The Macon Peaches, of the South Atlantic league, came through the past week with a record of six games won and only one loss, with the Asheville Braves running a close second, having five victories and two losses.

Columbia held the past week's record for double plays with eleven, but only got credit for one victory out of

Bob To Practice On London Links
ATLANTA, May 4.—(AP)—Six members of the American Walker cup golf team to disembark at Plymouth early Tuesday morning but Captain Bobby Jones, suffering severely from pleurisy and has been a semi-invalid ever since he reached the continent.

Although no public statement has been made about miss Jacobs' illness The Tribune learned of it through a letter written by Miss Jacobs to a friend. For a long time the nature of the illness was not known and there was no apparent explanation for the defeats Miss Jacobs received in the Riviera tournaments.

Miss Jacobs finally learned that she was suffering from pleurisy when she consulted the personal physician of the French tennis star, Mlle. Helen Mathieu, and under his treatment her condition is improving rapidly. She expects to be ready to play in the Wimbledon cup matches and in the Wimbledon championships which follow.

MAX ARRIVES, SEES BATTLE

Schmeling Fan Loses Decision to Policeman at Pier.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Max Schmeling saw his first fight in America, after an absence of a year, five minutes after he climbed off the boat today from Germany. Samuel Farber, a taxi driver, was so anxious to get a glimpse of the Teuton who will battle Jack Sharkey for the heavyweight title in June that he climbed on top of the cab of John Castagna, parked at the pier.

Castagna protested and so did the photographers who had hired the cab but as a private way, but he refused, and marched right into a shouting, mauling welcome. "These people," he said, "got up early to see me. I am not going to disappoint them."

Farber didn't have the $10 fine so he went to jail for two days. Resplendent in a gray striped ensemble, with 15 pieces of personal luggage, Schmeling was greeted on the pier by a crowd of German supporters estimated at 4,000. Officials of the line offered to slip him onto the pier through a private way, but he refused, and marched right into a shouting, mauling welcome. "These people," he said, "got up early to see me. I am not going to disappoint them."

Schmeling appeared in fine condition. He trained aboard ship coming over and said he enjoyed the passage though the water was rough for several days. He will take a half dozen sparring partners to camp with him Tuesday after applying for reinstatement at the offices of the New York state athletic commission. He was suspended before sailing for Germany a year ago for failure to box Phil Scott, the Englishman.

IS CONFIDENT.
The 24-year-old German said he believed that he could whip Sharkey. "The best man will win and that is how it should be," he said. "Naturally I am going to put up the best fight that is in me."

Schmeling intends to defend the heavyweight title in September if he beats Sharkey and would prefer to fight it out with Jack Dempsey, who has been a remarkable physical and racial resemblance. He said he believed that European fight fans were not yet ready to stage heavyweight title bouts.

Tennis standard-bearers of the United States and Canada will meet at the court on May 15, 16 and 17.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—The Herald-Tribune says that Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., second ranking American woman tennis player, who is now in Europe preparing for the Wimbledon cup matches, has been suffering severely from pleurisy and has been a semi-invalid ever since she reached the continent.

GEORGIA-BRED SLUGGER WILL REPORT AT ONCE

Johnny Dobbs Faces Arduous Task in Reorganizing Atlanta Team.

By Ralph McGill.
Roy Edward Carlyle, Georgia-bred slugger, was purchased from the Kansas City Blues Sunday by Atlanta and left immediately to join the Crackers in Birmingham, where they open a series of three games today.

This was the announcement from the Crackers office where the blues have been gathering daily until they have reached an indigo shade, which is about as blue as blue in nine games with the Blues this spring.

BATTED 348.
Last season he was with the Oakland club on the Pacific coast. His hitting average was .348.

In 106 ball games Roy Carlyle batted: Twenty-two home runs. Eleven triples. Thirty-six two-base hits. And enough singles to bring his total base hits to 210. He also drove in 108 runs. Which was quite a few ball games for the Oakland baseball club.

OTHERS TO COME.
Purchase of Roy Carlyle was the first of several moves which Skipper Johnny Dobbs will make to build the Crackers into a ball club with a punch. The one disappointing feature of the outfield has been that not a member of it carried a big stick. It lacked a punch.

Having jacked up his pitching staff, Johnny Dobbs is now busily engaged in building a ball club under it. Roy Carlyle is the foundation. The move by John D. Martin, who struck the Class "A" shackles off the men who had signed as free agents and made them Class "B" men, enabled the Crackers to take on one Class "A" pitcher and to have another one ready to join up today, and to make room for Carlyle.

OTHERS TO WORK.
Johnny Dobbs faces considerable reorganization work today. Andy Messenger, the pitcher who wore the striped king's robes in the Texas league last year, was signed on in the spot left vacant when Hoke Smith Beasley was shipped away from the Columbus club.

Jackie Mitchell is with the club. Dobbs plans to make room for him today. Roy Carlyle was ordered to report immediately to Birmingham. Unless Roy Carlyle is signed, it is doubtful that he will get back with some of his home folks in a hurry he will very likely follow the usual custom of ball players and get back in the baseball business "good-bye" before reporting.

Dobbs must reorganize his pitching staff and his outfield during the Birmingham series which opens today. He has plenty of room for Class "A" men, thanks to the recent ruling of the Memphis office. It was the first stroke of good fortune Red J. Spiller has ever had in the baseball business. Dobbs has any number of player moves coming up.

KNOX SUSPENDED.
He has Carter Cliff Knox under suspension. He is carrying Ivy Wingo and Bill Barrett in the catching department. Knox's suspension is due to be lifted this week. Dobbs must get rid of one of his catchers. It will probably be Barrett. He hasn't been used but once and then in the role of a pinch-hitter. He hit but was necessary to supply a pinch-runner for him.

Dobbs can go ahead, now that Ivy Wingo has been made a Class "A" man, and hire a Class "A" catcher who can hit and catch about 140 games with no sign of weariness or loss of enthusiasm.

There are those possibilities in that one department.

FORCE OUT.
Roy Carlyle will cut out one of the present outfield trio of Frank Walker, Elton Langford and Si Rosenthal. Ordinarily the Class B rule would figure there. It doesn't any more.

Yip, faddy, i-ay. Throw kicks toward Mr. Martin's office. Send him posies. He shore done right by our Neil. Leo Bader, a suspended infielder, is due back on the active list this week. That will give Spire Johnny Dobbs Jim Bader, Leo Bader, Milt Stock, Jimmy Johnston, Jack Sheehan and Roy Grimes in the infield.

And Johnny Jones, shortstop who held the reins for several weeks, will join the club in Birmingham. Probably today.

All of which means that Johnny Dobbs must cut away at least two from the list of seven infielder on hand. Oh, 'tis a difficult task our Mr. Dobbs has. Difficult at best.

PITCHING ANGLE.

Brooklyn and Cleveland Show Way in Majors During Week

DODGERS SLUG TO TOP RUNG OF NATIONAL

Cleveland Near Bottom in Hitting, But Leads All Rest.

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.
NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Cleveland Indians divided the major honors in the big leagues last week, but they did it in vastly different ways.

Each won five games and lost only one to top their respective circuits. The Dodgers slugged their way to the head of the National league by hammering opposing pitchers for 87 hits and 57 runs to top the week's slugging prize. They tied with the Philadelphia Athletics for the high run total of the two leagues and led the Boston Braves, their nearest rival, by three in hitting. The Athletics were the American league's best sluggers with 79.

GET VICTORIES.
The Indians came down near the bottom in hitting, but managed to pull out the victories just the same. They made only 30 runs from 66 hits, the same result that put the Phillies at the bottom of the National league. But Cleveland managed to hold its opponents to 23 tallies, while Brooklyn's rivals scored 47 times.

The National league in general produced heavier hitting. Boston made 84 hits, Pittsburgh 83 and New York 80 to better the American league's high mark. The Braves scored 46 times to win second place. The St. Louis Browns, winning but one game of six, brought up at the end of the offensive list, making but 18 runs and 44 hits. Cincinnati was low in the National league with 29 runs.

The Chicago Cubs led the home-run hitters, driving out 18 home-run batters. Three teams tied for second place in this department.

ERRORS FREQUENT.
Errors were rather down near the bottom, but the record showed some improvement. Detroit got through the week with but three misplays, but the Tigers had a weak defense and allowed their opponents to score 56 runs. Five and six errors were the more common totals. The Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Nationals did the worst fielding, committing 13 and 12 errors, respectively.

In defense, Cleveland led all the rest, but the St. Louis Cardinals held their opponents to 31 runs, leading the National league in this respect, while the Chicago White Sox did even better, limiting their opponents to 20 runs.

Artillery Horsemen Beat Guards, 13-3
(FORT BENNING, Ga., May 4.—(Special).—The Governor's Horse Guard team was defeated, 13 to 3, by the 83d Field Artillery, and the Fort McPherson team the Bluebirds, 3-3, in two polo games played before a capacity crowd here this afternoon.

The Field Artillery team, one of the best in this section, had little trouble with the Horse Guard team. They gave the Atlanta four a two-goal handicap and Gay, at 1, scored the only point for the visitors. Brilliant defensive work by Moran stopped many Artillery raids on the Horse Guard goal. Herschel Baker, at 3, for the Artillery, scored six goals.

In the other game McPherson had a brand-new lineup which worked effectively enough to hold its opponents to a tie score. Biddle, at 2, for McPherson, played a spectacular game and scored two goals. Franke, at 4, scored the other. Van Houten, 1, for the Bluebirds, turned in a good game.

Tuesday McPherson will play the Artillery four while the Horse Guard will meet the Bluebirds.

Making the Title Stick.

With Messrs. Schmeling and Sharkey plunging into the first stages of their final training this week, an interesting point has popped out from under cover.

Several inquiring fight fans want to know how all the various boxing associations in this country and Europe, especially Europe, will be about making the title of "world's heavyweight champion" stick when the two entries from Boston and Berlin conclude their show. The New York commission will award the Tunney-Muldoon trophy to the winner and officially hand him the crown Tunney discarded two years ago. Most of the state associations and the National Boxing Association will probably follow.

What Europe will do is another guess. This will be an easy guess if Schmeling wins. He will then get the European vote. But there has been no passionate love for Sharkey in England, especially since Phil Scott filed his somber report after the Miami turn. If Scott beats Stribling the British board may insist that Phil is still in the hunt.

At the worst the winner of the June carnival in New York will have a big jump on the field. He will have the support of many boxing associations, and as long as there is no one else around making a noise like a champion he will get the majority verdict.

Yet the winner will not be automatically hailed by the public at large as the new champion if the fight is a flop and the show is a bust. If there is another replica of the Sharkey-Stribling or the Sharkey-Scott contests the howl will be so noisy that the title will mean nothing. After all it isn't unreasonable to expect one of the two challengers to prove he can fight a little.

Running the Risk.
Schmeling and Sharkey will run whatever risk there is of having some association, local or foreign, refuse to recognize the heavyweight award. They will run this risk with much pleasure.

The strong spot in their claim will be that no one else is even close to the mark. There is no other challenger in the neighborhood who has proved anything like a counter claim.

This makes it somewhat simpler, provided the challenger from Boston or the challenger from Berlin is willing to do a little fighting for the crown he is supposed to wear.

But these eliminations and eliminations have blown so many chances in the last two years that it might be just as well to wait and see what the production is.

Old Spanish galleons that sailed the seas replete with gold and silver will have nothing on the treasure ship bringing Bill Tilden's tennis prizes back home.

Golf Maxims.
Even a man of considerable means Cannot afford many three-putt greens.

A mashtie shot hit up in the shank Is worse than overdrawing your bank.

The remedy may be a trifle stiff, But you never hook or slice when you whiff.

Cub Pitching.
With the arrival of warmer weather the time seems to be about ripe for Cub pitching to reach its old efficiency. Any team that has Pat Malone, Guy Bush, Charley Root, Sheriffs Blake and one or two others is pretty sure to get its share of good pitching from now on.

The Cubs won last season through pitching and the punch, just as the Athletics did. They have both ready again, but they will have a harder time winning against some better opposition.

Ty Cobb remarked before the season started that the second pennant year is always the easiest for any good team. The margins opened up by Cubs and Athletics last year were wide enough to prove they were two good clubs, good enough to win again without a decided improvement on the part of some rival. No rival has yet shown the brand of improvement needed to supplant a team with the pitching and the punch the Cubs still carry, or will carry when they finally get going.

One or two extra pitchers who can help out in an emergency make a terrific difference. The Cubs have this help.

Next week the United States will have placed Helen Wills, Bobby Jones, Glenna Collett, Bill Tilden and Horton Smith in Europe—far and away the greatest group of talent one country ever sent abroad. They are quite likely to bag four of the five championships they will enter, the one sure barrier—or practically sure barrier—being Henri Cochet in tennis. The others stand above any competitors they will meet.

In the meanwhile Earl Sande riding Gallant Fox isn't shooting at anything except the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby in the next two weeks just by way of an interlude.

The contemplating of the next two weeks should be extremely pleasant for the No. 1 on the British golf team who will be called on to entertain Bobby Jones for 36 holes at Sandwich.

Glenna Collett had a 75 and was beaten. There are six or seven male golfers who would be willing to take a trimming after shooting a 75.

As long as night baseball worked out so effectively at Des Moines it may save the minor leagues.

Traveling.
John Mostil did some traveling from last fall to this spring. The White Sox sent him to Toledo and Toledo sent him to the Giants and the Giants returned him to Toledo and Toledo returned him to the White Sox.

TUESDAY'S SCHEDULE.
Marist at G. M. A. at Commercial.
Tech High at Russell.
University at Fulton.
Decatur vs. By.

FRIDAY'S SCHEDULE.
G. M. A. at University.
Fulton at Commercial.
Tech High at Decatur.
Marist at Boys' High.
Russell vs. By.

By Roy White.
Tech High still clings to the leadership of the City Prep league, due to unexpected defeats by the Marist team in its last appearances on the field.

Fulton High, after losing its first two games, has rallied and is holding down second place, with G. M. A., Russell, Decatur and Marist all tied for third place.

Only two more weeks remain for play in the prep loop and the games this week and next week promise to be even more close and interesting than those of the past two weeks.

Tech High, the leader, still has to face Fulton, Marist and Russell, teams which have proven to be among the best in the league.

In the Tuesday schedule, two games stand out prominently. Marist and G. M. A. will fight it out at College Park in a battle for either second or third place.

The Typists are out to regain some lost ground and Boys' High has been weakened considerably by the loss of Baldwin, their star first baseman, who has been declared ineligible.

SMITHIES LEAD.
Tech High will play Russell at East Point and a loss for the Smithies will mean a tie-up for either second or third place.

After its first two games, Fulton High has played the most consistent of any of the prep teams. Coach Hope led the services of Etheridge, a first baseman, and Wray, a star pitcher, but due to scholastic deficiencies, but has found season through pitching and the punch, just as the Athletics did.

They have both ready again, but they will have a harder time winning against some better opposition.

Ty Cobb remarked before the season started that the second pennant year is always the easiest for any good team. The margins opened up by Cubs and Athletics last year were wide enough to prove they were two good clubs, good enough to win again without a decided improvement on the part of some rival.

No rival has yet shown the brand of improvement needed to supplant a team with the pitching and the punch the Cubs still carry, or will carry when they finally get going.

One or two extra pitchers who can help out in an emergency make a terrific difference. The Cubs have this help.

Next week the United States will have placed Helen Wills, Bobby Jones, Glenna Collett, Bill Tilden and Horton Smith in Europe—far and away the greatest group of talent one country ever sent abroad. They are quite likely to bag four of the five championships they will enter, the one sure barrier—or practically sure barrier—being Henri Cochet in tennis. The others stand above any competitors they will meet.

In the meanwhile Earl Sande riding Gallant Fox isn't shooting at anything except the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby in the next two weeks just by way of an interlude.

The contemplating of the next two weeks should be extremely pleasant for the No. 1 on the British golf team who will be called on to entertain Bobby Jones for 36 holes at Sandwich.

Glenna Collett had a 75 and was beaten. There are six or seven male golfers who would be willing to take a trimming after shooting a 75.

As long as night baseball worked out so effectively at Des Moines it may save the minor leagues.

Traveling.
John Mostil did some traveling from last fall to this spring. The White Sox sent him to Toledo and Toledo sent him to the Giants and the Giants returned him to Toledo and Toledo returned him to the White Sox.

Glenna Collett had a 75 and was beaten. There are six or seven male golfers who would be willing to take a trimming after shooting a 75.

As long as night baseball worked out so effectively at Des Moines it may save the minor leagues.

Adventures of Seckatary Hawkins

“INTO THE BROWN MAN’S NECK,” SAID DOC WATERS, AS WE WENT INTO THE DARK HOLE UNDER THE HILL. SOMEHOW WE ALL KNEW THAT OUR SEARCH FOR THE HIDDEN TREASURE WAS ABOUT TO END SUCCESSFULLY. WE WENT UP A WINDING STAIRWAY—

WE FOUND OURSELVES IN A SMALL, CIRCULAR ROOM, HOLLOWED OUT IN THE TOP OF THE HILL THAT, FROM THE SEA, HAD THE OUTLINES OF A BROWN MAN’S HEAD. A THIN RAY OF SUNLIGHT PIERCED THE DARKNESS FROM A PEEPHOLE IN THE ROCK.

A NUMBER OF SMALL BARRELS LINED THE WALLS, LUCIO WENT OVER AND DUSTED ONE WITH HIS HANDKERCHIEF. “DUST OF A HUNDRED YEARS!” EXCLAIMED LUCIO. A SINGLE WORD—“GRANADA”—WAS PRINTED ON EACH CASK, AND THEN

WE ALL TURNED AT A CRY FROM THE SPANISH SERVANT. HE STOOD STARING AT THE CASKS AS IF HE COULD NOT BELIEVE HIS EYES. SOMETHING IN THAT ONE WORD, WRITTEN ON THOSE CASKS, HAD GIVEN THE OLD SPANIARD A FRIGHT—

GOY TO TOMORROW.

Negro Boys Charged With Chicken Thefts

Chicken feathers on a stove, and fresh chicken blood in an ice box were the bits of circumstantial evidence that caused the arrest of two youthful negroes early Sunday morning by Call Officers H. A. Hardy and C. P. Hill, Jr. The pair are being held on "suspicion" until detectives can verify statements of neighbors of the two, who accuse them of chicken stealing. Early Sunday morning Mack Wright, colored, of 170 Glenwood avenue, telephoned for police assistance and the officers went to investigate. Wright's wife told them that three hens had disappeared from her back yard and charged her neighbors with some knowledge of the fowls' whereabouts. The damage Sunday night, 15 and R. Franklin, 18, residing in the rear of 158 Glenwood avenue, accordingly were arrested.

Mrs. Booth-Clibborn Ends Revival Here

Continuing, by popular request, the story of her early evangelistic work in Europe, the first chapter of which was given at the auditorium a week ago, Mrs. Booth-Clibborn Sunday night kept a capacity audience at the Gospel Tabernacle tense as she related more of her thrilling experiences on the continent. Though it marked the close of an intensive campaign of three weeks in Europe, the Marchale delivered her final sermon here with the same forceful vigor that characterized her first public appearance. There were many expressions of regret at her departure from the platform, though she will remain in the city for a few days' rest.

50 Bales of Cotton Destroyed by Fire

About 50 bales of cotton were destroyed and several hundred others damaged by fire of undetermined origin that broke out in the C. L. C. Thomas Cotton Warehouse at 225 Milton avenue, S. E., early Sunday afternoon.

The blaze, which started on the first floor of the two-story brick structure, was virtually extinguished by the company's automatic sprinkler system before apparatus from stations No. 9 and 10 arrived, it was said. Much of the loss was caused by smoke and water, according to Assistant Fire Chief W. B. Fanning. More than 55 "sprinkler heads" were replaced by firemen, he said. P. Charles Belleau, vice president of the warehouse, was unable to estimate the damage Sunday night. He said, however, that "it probably would run more than several thousand dollars."
